Grits Win Bank Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—The minority Liberal government won its first vote test of the fall sitting Thursday night—81 to 78 on the question of approval in principle for its revised Bank Act.

It came after Finance Minister Sharp told the Commons that chartered banks will have to disclose effective interest rates and service charges on consumer loans. He said he would propose an amendment to this effect during clause-by-clause study of the revised act. The vote came at the second reading stage. The bill now will be sent to the Commons finance committee, then return for clause-by-clause study by the House.

OPPOSING LINE

The 52 Liberals got support from two independents—J. A. Monaghan (Trois-Rivières) and Maurice Allard (Sherbrooke). Voting against them were 52 Conservatives, 15 New Democrats, seven Creditistes, three Social Credit members and Independent Gilles Giguère (Lévis).

Surrender Or Die For Cong

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. marines and army forces Thursday swept to victories on the two hottest battlefields of the war and successes were reported in every other sector of the country, including the mass surrender of 65 Viet Cong.

The marines ended a 15-day drive across a strategic mountain ridge just three miles south of the de-militarized zone by crushing a stubborn Communist hill-top fortress in heavy rain and gummy mud.

First Cavalry Division troops reported killing 94 Communists and capturing another 72 as an elite Communist division was being squeezed in an Allied trap along the coastline 30 miles north of Qui Nhon.

"They haven't got any choice except to surrender or get wiped out," a U.S. spokesman said.

Arms Sales Wrong

Wrong

TORONTO (UPI)—Former finance minister Walter Gordon said Thursday Canada should not sell arms to the United States if they are going to be used in the Viet Nam war.

Speaking to a meeting of the University of Toronto Liberal Club, Gordon said he did not think an arms cut-off to the United States would hurt the Canadian economy.

The former finance minister applauded Prime Minister Pearson for his comments about the war and "for all practical purposes saying the U.S. administration was wrong."

Gordon said he thought the war in Viet Nam was terrible.

Truscott Defence Dissects 'Dreadful Mistake'

DID YOU KILL HER? NO, SIR

By FRASER KELLY, Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Steven Truscott faces a stepped-up cross-examination today as Crown counsel Donald Scott makes a final attempt to crack his plea of innocence before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Scott said Thursday night he expects to question the 21-year-old convicted murderer for at least 45 minutes before allowing him to return to his jail cell.

For more than two hours Thursday Truscott stood behind a table, ramrod stiff, trying to convince the world he did not murder Lynne Harper in 1959.

His testimony climaxed when senior defence counsel G. Arthur Martin abruptly asked: "Did you kill Lynne Harper?"

Quickly and firmly Truscott replied: "No, I did not."

Earlier in a breathtaking move, Mr. Martin had introduced—on defence evidence—an application for parole made by Truscott in his own handwriting on Aug. 4, 1964.

The hushed court was electric with tension as Mr. Martin read the last three sentences of the application:

"I have paid five years of my life, but this has taught me crime does not pay. So all I ask is please grant me one chance to make a success of my life and prove one dreadful mistake does not mean that I will ever make another one."

"I know that I will never be in any trouble for the rest of my life and I know that I could keep any terms which you decide."

Mr. Martin asked the witness what he had meant by writing that he had learned that crime does not pay.

"Through observing all the people in the penitentiary it was obvious to me that crime wouldn't pay," Truscott replied.

He then said he had concluded before writing the submission it wouldn't do him any good to argue his innocence any longer and "it would be to my benefit to more or less go along with them on their terms in order to get out."

A short time later, after some legal wrangling, Mr. Martin introduced a second document written by Truscott's parole officer, classification assistant W. J. Haggerty, 13 days after the parole application.

It said: "Truscott still claims innocence of the present offence, but accepts his sentence with the feeling that nothing can be done."

A few minutes earlier Truscott had testified that he had been examined in prison by several psychiatrists.

"Was there a discussion of your guilt or innocence?" Mr. Martin asked.

When Truscott replied "Yes," Mr. Martin asked what approach was taken.

"The majority of them wanted me to admit I was guilty," Truscott said.

NDP Cracks Sacred Bastion

HILLCREST, Alta. (CP)—The New Democratic party captured a seat in the Alberta legislature Thursday night when Garth Turcott won a byelection in Fischer Creek-Crowsnest constituency by 134 votes.

The loss of the southwest Alberta seat is

CBC President Plans to Quit

Informed Ottawa source says CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet, 58, will retire from position after government passes legislation containing sweeping changes in Broadcasting Act. He was named president in 1958.—(CP)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sawmills are shutting down and interior businesses are becoming crippled as a tieup continues on British Columbia's only rail lifeline between the coast and the rich Peace River country.

A strike by some 400 non-operating employees of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern railway went into its 12th day today. The striking workers voted 64 per cent to reject a government wage offer and said the next move is up to Victoria.

Indignation is rising against the tieup of the line which runs some 800 miles from the southwest coast to the far northeast of the province. It is the main hauler of timber, oil and grain, the lifeblood of the province's economy.

At Williams Lake in the more southerly Cariboo country, Mayor Herbert Gardner described the situation as "pretty grim." He said the strike has affected several hundred people in the area and business in stores is down 25 per cent.

In Dawson Creek, Mayor Ron Witherston said his reaction to the employees' rejection of the government's offer of parity with any final national rail employees settlement, was "unprintable."

Ship Burns After Collision

COURTBOURNE, Ont. (CP) — The German freighter Emstina was burning and believed sinking after a collision with the Olympic Peart in the St. Clair River Thursday night.

Police said no one was injured. Witnesses said 17 crew members of the Emstina jumped overboard.

They were rescued by the United States Coast Guard and taken ashore on the American side of the river.

Two officers who remained aboard the burning vessel were rescued by helicopter.

Peace File Swells

Five Formulas with One Objective

NEW YORK (AP)—The six-point plan for Viet Nam peace put forth Thursday at the Labor party meeting in Britain by British Foreign Secretary George Brown joins other plans, still outstanding, offered by UN Secretary-General U Thant, U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Viet Nam, and the North Viet Nam regime.

Here are summaries of the plans:

BROWN'S

● Call a peace conference including representatives of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

● As soon as the parity is agreed upon, both sides cease reinforcing their combat armies and the United States halt all bombing.

● The opposing high commands stop all new attacks, preliminary to a ceasefire while the peace conference negotiates a political settlement.

● Neutralize Viet Nam, barring foreign troops and bases.

● Provide international supervision of these measures.

Were Executions Forced by Canada?

MONTREAL (CP) — A McGill University professor has sent a letter to Defence Minister Hellyer urging him to investigate allegations in a German magazine that Canadian army officers were involved in the 1945 trial and execution of two German army deserters by military court, nine days after German military courts were abolished by the Allies, and five days after V-E Day.

Prof. Edward McWhinney, professor of law and director of the Institute of Air and Space Law at McGill, said Thursday the allegations must be investigated since they reflect unfavorably on Canada's NATO brigades now in Germany.

He said two articles in the German magazine Der Spiegel said that a Canadian general and other army officers were involved in the trial of Bruno Dorfer and Rainer Beck May 13, 1945, by a German court near Amsterdam.

After reading the first article, contained in the Sept. 12 issue, Prof. McWhinney wrote to Mr. Hellyer Sept. 23. A few days later he received a formal acknowledgment of his letter with the promise that a further reply would be sent to him.

He said the first article alleged that a Canadian Army general gave the order for trial by German military court; the Canadian Army supplied weapons for the executions; that Canadian army wagons transported the two men to their deaths and that a Canadian officer went to the execution and congratulated the firing squad afterwards.

The second article which appeared in Der Spiegel Oct. 3 contained allegations by Wilhelm Koh, the German military court judge who presided at the trial, that Canadian army officers had used threats to compel him to try the men and sentence them to death, Prof. McWhinney said.

Prof. McWhinney said the judge who now is a provincial Supreme Court judge in Cologne, says in the article that he was a prisoner of war at the time of the trial and acted under duress.

The judge was quoted in the article as saying that a Canadian lieutenant-colonel wanted to arrest and try other deserters besides the two.

Prof. McWhinney said he is interested in the case as a professor of international law and as vice-president of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association.

At Ottawa, defence department officials declined comment on the grounds that the matter is before the German courts.

vote and was sent to the finance committee.

The House then turned to debate a measure for feed grain assistance to farmers in Eastern Canada and British Columbia.

In closing debate at second reading on the Bank Act, Mr. Sharp said the banks, because they are the largest source of loans in the country, have been picked as the starting point for federal-provincial co-operation aimed at disclosure of interest rates charged by all financial institutions.

PARLEY DATE

The minister added that he expects to announce shortly a date for a federal-provincial conference on consumer credit and disclosure of interest rates.

Mr. Sharp made the announcement while closing debate on second reading, approval in principle.

Earlier, the New Democratic Party unsuccessfully tried to widen the jurisdiction of the Bank Act by defining as a bank any financial institution whose cheques are handled by a central clearing house.

OUT OF ORDER

In his closing reply, Mr. Sharp said he had stated in July that the government is prepared to consider legislation on the matter in the future.

The NDP amendment proposed by Max Saltman (NDP - Waterloo South) was ruled out of order by Speaker Lucien Lamoureux on grounds that it was irrelevant and introduced a new proposal to the legislation.

The Commons was continuing debate on second reading, approval in principle.

FURTHER STEPS

Mr. Saltman said in an interview later that his proposal was put forward in the hope of finding a way to bring near banks and trust companies under the act without running into constitutional difficulties.

His amendment would have postponed second reading until consideration was given to:

● Placing operation of clearing house facilities for cheques, now operated by the Canadian Bankers Association, in the hands of the Bank of Canada.

● Defining as banks any financial institutions issuing demand liabilities and transferable and short-term bank claims requiring access to the cheque-clearing system.

● Taking steps to give the Bank of Canada power to set maximum interest rates on loans and deposits. This clause was aimed at preventing a price war for deposits when the six-per-cent ceiling on interest rates is raised.

ing a price war for deposits when the six-per-cent ceiling on interest rates is raised.

NO DEFINITION

Mr. Sharp said in the Commons Wednesday the government decided against trying to define what constitutes a bank since the definition might be tested in the courts.

As the debate continued Thursday, spokesmen from the NDP and other opposition parties repeated arguments that there must be some controls to prevent interest rates from soaring.

The bill proposes removal of the present six-per-cent ceiling on bank interest rates. Instead, rates would be adjusted every six months under a set formula.

RATE CONTROL

Bert Leboe (SC - Cariboo) said he agreed with an NDP spokesman that there had to be "some definite control of interest rates" throughout the country.

The banks had been getting around the six-per-cent ceiling on interest charges, he said.

One method was to impose a large service charge. Another was to make a loan for more than the amount requested on condition the difference was deposited so that it would create an additional amount of money on which loans could be made.

FOR PEOPLE

Separatist MP Gilles Giguère (Lapointe) said the bill should be redrafted in the interests of the people of Canada rather than bankers.

By lowering the reserve rate and raising to seven per cent the interest rate banks may charge, the government would make the chequered banks richer by $486,000,000 a year.

Trip Longest

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson confirmed Thursday that his first official trip overseas will be the most extensive visit to the Far East ever by an American president.

It begins Oct. 17 and winds up Nov. 2 and in between Johnson will cover roughly 25,000 miles and visit the capitals of New Zealand, Australia, the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia and South Korea.

Amplifier in Modern X-Ray Cuts Exposure, Radiation Risk

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

People who have had to be X-rayed numerous times still write to me asking whether so much radiation is harmful.

My answer is that radiation without a good reason should always be avoided, but that for diagnostic X-rays film now permits shorter exposures, and in the last decade another factor has also been at work: The "image amplifier" or "image intensifier."

A professor at Temple University, Dr. Edward Chamberlain, started a crusade for such a device in a lecture in 1941. With a "light amplifier," X-rays would show more; when a fluoroscope was being used, doctors would not have to remain in the dark for a half hour in advance to adjust their eyes to see the very faint images.

The first image amplifier was announced in 1948 by a Westinghouse research team headed by Dr. John W. Colman, and in 1950 it intensified the image 250 to 500 times which was a marvelous step forward, but today some units increase the brightness by several thousand times. Much smaller amounts of radiation are needed per picture, and in many large hospitals, motion pictures taken by X-ray are made when it is necessary to watch the movement of an organ rather than just taking a "still" picture. This is of vast importance in diagnosis of heart defects, studies of breathing, and other matters.

Your Good Health

Dr. Chamberlain predicted that when such a device came along it would be "second in importance only to the discovery of X-rays themselves," which was not a bad forecast, yet it has now crept into daily use with so little fanfare that a good many people, it seems, aren't really aware of its existence.

Medically it not only reduces radiation and makes far better pictures, but is permitting us to find out some things about the human body that have been impossible to ascertain before.

It also is of tremendous use in astronomy and other endeavors in which images are very faint, but that's aside from the point, so far as medicine is concerned.

Loose or frequent bowel movements can result from an overactive thyroid gland, and likewise from an excessive dosage of thyroid substance. The dose you specified is extremely small, so I would question whether it is a factor in your case. If the thyroid substance is indeed bothering you, you are unusually sensitive to it.

Hard Day Ahead for Truscott

Truscott replied, "I would not admit to it."

After a couple of questions, he added: "I was engaged in quite a few arguments with them."

Under cross-examination on the parole application Truscott said: "As far as they were concerned, I had admitted the crime. As far as I was concerned, I had not."

"I felt if I continued to argue about my innocence this would hurt my chance of getting a parole."

He admitted that he felt a Dr. Scott in Kingston penitentiary had worked against his parole.

HIGHLIGHTS

There were several other highlights during the time Truscott sat behind the desk facing the nine elderly judges and the packed courtroom.

● He denied the evidence given by three people at his trial who said they saw him with his bicycle near the bush in which the 12-year-old girl's body was found.

● He denied he had gone to another young girl's house and asked her to go to the bush with him to hunt for newborn calves.

● He stuck to his story that he saw Lynne Harper get into a grey 1958 Chevrolet with yellowish licence plates.

● He explained the sores on his genitals which the Crown contended were consistent with having raped, or having attempted to rape a girl.

EMBARRASSED

He said the sores had begun six weeks before he was picked up by police and he was too embarrassed to tell his father about them. He added that while he was in prison similar sores broke out on his neck and back.

Truscott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Truscott, sat along the courtroom wall, diagonally across from him and within easy sight of their son. They visited together briefly in the court ante room before he was brought into the courtroom to begin his evidence.

His initial apparent nervousness eased somewhat as Mr. Martin led him through a brief account of his 14 years before Lynne's death.

MET BY CHANCE

Then they reached June 9, 1959, and Truscott told of meeting Lynne Harper by chance on the ground of the Air Vice Marshal Hugh Campbell school sometime after supper.

His last sight of her: "I turned around and there was a car pulled in at the road and she got in," Truscott testified.

The next day, he said, Lynne's father came to his home to inquire about her.

Mr. Martin asked whether Truscott remembered the first time he mentioned the car to anybody.

Truscott replied that he couldn't remember when it was but it had been to the police. Mr. Martin took Truscott step by step from the playground to the highway intersection where Truscott said Lynne met him. Their route passed over a bridge over the Bayfield River.

NUMBERS

Later, Mr. Scott asked whether he remembered telling the police of seeing a car and saying the licence number was 981665.

"Yes I do and also that some of the numbers might have been changed around."

Why could he remember the numbers?

Truscott replied that he usually noticed a car's make and where it was from. Where it was from was on the licence plate and "these are the numbers I remember."

DENIES TESTIMONY

Truscott said he doesn't recall trial testimony that a make and model of car such as he had seen Lynne enter was used by a man named Blume who collected money June 9 from Truscott's brother.

Truscott also denied trial testimony by Jocelyn Gaudet that he had invited her to go to the bush at about 6 p.m. June 9.

He conceded he had been to the store near her home about that time but "I couldn't be in two places at one time."

PARITY OFFERED

The last wage offer made by the government was for parity with any settlement in the national railway dispute, with a guaranteed 50 cents an hour for tradesmen and 40 cents for non-tradesmen in a two year contract retroactive to Jan. 1, 1966.

Premier Bennett said if this was not accepted the PGE would remain idle.

The employees, members of the Federation of PGE Employees, said they are holding out for a majority conciliation board report suggesting 50 cents an hour across the board, which the railway refused to accept.

Morale Lost, Dollars Saved

TORONTO (CP)—Two major errors in the government's program for unification of the armed services should be rectified before permanent harm is done to the forces, R. S. Malone of Winnipeg, newspaper executive and former army brigadier, said Thursday.

He said in a speech to the Empire Club that the command structure erected by Defence Minister Hellyer is faulty at the top and that unification at lower levels will cost more in morale than it saves in dollars.

Mr. Malone, managing director of the FP Publications group and publisher of Winnipeg Free Press, was a combat officer in the Second World War and later army public relations chief in Normandy. He was one of a few Canadian officers who served in all major theatres of that war.

He said the most fundamental error leading to the current integration-unification problem is their unnecessary retirements through "frustration."

"Here all the lessons of military history are being ignored," Mr. Malone said. In essence, the chief of defence staff now was the adviser to the government in all defence matters. It meant Canada had a commander-in-chief or captain-general of the forces, "a post which became obsolete in Queen Anne's reign."

"Mr. Hellyer argues that we do have a defence council. But members of this council or staff do not vote with a voice equal to that of the chief of the defence staff, nor do they have the right of direct access to the cabinet."

"History has demonstrated times without number the fallacy of this arrangement."

"I would strongly advocate," Mr. Malone said, "that in place of our present arrangement of a commander-in-chief, this function be carried out by a proper defence council of senior officers, representing not the three distinct branches of the service but rather the three functions of defence—operations, supply and administration for all three services."

"Also included in this council staff should be certain civilian members such as the deputy minister and someone representing research as well as wartime production or industry when required."

"Had such a system been in effect to offer advice to the cabinet properly, I feel, certain that all the present confusion could have been avoided and that the worth-while aspects of integration would have been readily effected."

While Mr. Malone said he strongly supports a high degree of integration, he sided with officers recently forced to resign in not subscribing to all out unification down to the level of operational or combat units. "If unification is pushed to the level of combat units—that is regiments, ships companies and fighter squadrons, I am convinced that all unit identification and character will be lost and the all important factors of morale, regimental pride and esprit de corps will be permanently destroyed."

Death Decreed For Russians

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Five young workers have been sentenced to death in northern Russia for killing a local deputy police chief, it was reported here. The newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya said the police chief was killed when he tried to calm the young men, angered by a lack of welcome on their arrival for work at a forestry settlement.

'Cordial' People of Halifax Made Visit Worthwhile

John D Demands Forces Talk Now

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker asked Prime Minister Pearson Thursday to have the Commons defence committee convened now so it can hear evidence about the controversial unification of the armed forces.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the Commons that an early committee sitting is needed so Parliament can receive facts about the issue rather than just statements from Defence Minister Hellyer.

Mr. Pearson said the sooner unification legislation is introduced into the Commons, the sooner the committee will be able to deal with the matter.

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer denied Thursday an opposition member's suggestion that his recent unification talks with Maritime naval officers had been an "abject failure."

Gordon Churohill (PC-Winnipeg South Centre) had asked whether the minister would report to the House on his failure "in view of his timidity about calling together the defence committee."

Mr. Hellyer replied that it had been a worthwhile trip. "The people of Halifax were very cordial and I enjoyed it very much," he said.

The defence minister also said, in reply to J. Patrick Nowlan (PC-Digby-Annapolis-Kings) that no decision has been made on whether or not to close the Cornwallis naval station in Nova Scotia.

Ottawa Plans Research Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal grants to encourage scientific research and development would be made to business firms under legislation to be introduced in the Commons. Industry Minister Drury has submitted a resolution that will pave the way for detailed amendments later.

Growth Needed

Newest Province Ruled Out For Decade

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial status for the MacKenzie District of the Northwest Territories is ruled out for at least the next 10 years in a comprehensive report tabled in the Commons Thursday by Northern Development Minister Laing.

In its 50,000-word report, the Carrothers advisory commission on the development of government in the N.W.T. also recommended against a government-approved plan to divide the vast northern area into two separate territories—the territory of MacKenzie and the territory of Nunavut.

Northerners could best solve their vast political, social and economic ills by remaining together as one unit at least for a decade, when another review should be made.

GREATER POWERS

Until then, they should be governed by a legislative assembly and commissioners with greatly increased powers compared with those now held by the N.W.T. council and commissioners.

"... What is required now is not provincehood but the means of growth to provincehood," said Commissioner A. W. R. Carrothers, dean of law at the University of Western Ontario, constitutional lawyer Jean Beetz of Montreal and Mayor John Parker of Yellowknife.

STUDY NEEDED

Mr. Laing said the report is both complex and important and requires much study before he can comment on it.

The commissioners said they failed to find much public support for division in their two fact-finding trips to the N.W.T.

The MacKenzie, the western side of the N.W.T. bordering on the Yukon, had failed to make its case to become Canada's 11th province.

MINERALS IMPORTANT

"It is not conceivable that the central government would convey title in the minerals and petroleum resources of one-third of the land mass of Canada to a government of less than 0.2 per cent of the Canadian population, three-fifths of whom are indigenous peoples who, however great their potential, are at the present time politically unsophisticated and economically depressed."

The case for provincial status wasn't strengthened by division.

Keeping the territories intact would allow the political development of the MacKenzie which was more developed than the other areas. But division would have "the accidental and unintended effect of gerrymandering the indigenous peoples of the North out of effective participation in territorial government."

Teacher Fined for Assault

OTTAWA (CP)—A teacher who spanked a 12-year-old boy with a ruler was fined $25 and costs here Thursday after pleading guilty to common assault.

Rejean LeBlanc, 28, who is teaching his first term in Ottawa's separate school system, told magistrate's court he was attempting to discipline the boy.

The charge was laid after the child complained to his parents that he had been forced to stretch out, face down, on a table in front of his classmate while the teacher spanked him on the buttocks.

A doctor examined the boy and found he had been severely bruised.

Gilbey's disclose little tricks to improve your mixed gin drinks

Use these little tricks to improve your mixed gin drinks. But if it's taste that's troubling you—forget the tricks and change to Gilbey's London Dry. Its perfect balance gives you a fresh, clean-tasting drink.

This gin is an international favourite, sold in 92 countries. It's been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years.

Tricks with ice

If you need lots of ice for a party, start a few hours before the event. Make a batch of ice and then tip it out into a plastic bag. You can then keep the bag of ice in the bottom half of your refrigerator—the bag helps keep the ice well chilled. Make as many bags as you need.

Tricks with twists

To make a 'twist' of lemon begin with fresh lemon. See that the skin is clear and unblemished. With a razor-sharp knife pare off a strip of peel 1/8" wide. Take the strip of peel between your thumb and forefinger. Twist it so that a couple of drops go into your drink.

Hint: there's a special knife for paring twists. If you do a lot of twisting, it's worth getting.

You can rely on Gilbey's London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin that gives you a fresh, clean-tasting drink.

The Peace Offensive

IN SPITE OF PRESSURE from the left wing in Great Britain's Labor Party convention at Brighton, there is no indication that Prime Minister Harold Wilson will waver in his support of the United States' policy in Viet Nam.

But the convention, with a majority of more than a million votes, approved a resolution urging the government to put all possible pressure on Washington to halt all bombing of North Viet Nam and seek a speedy end of the war.

While the vote was seen as a moral victory for the left-wing advocates of peace at any price, the convention approved the government's over-all foreign policy—and by implication Foreign Secretary George Brown's planned peace offensive—by a vote of nearly five million to just over half a million.

Mr. Brown's peace plan is based on the assumption that both sides can find common ground on the Geneva Conference formula of 1954 which ended the long-drawn confrontation between France and Communist forces under Ho Chi Minh.

But he will not ask, as the left wing of the party urges, that the United States alone seek disengagement.

His suggestions have much to recommend them. A peace parley must include representation from the Viet Cong, that element of South Viet Nam which takes orders from Hanoi. And to this the Americans have indicated they would agree. And the calling of the talks would be followed by cessation of all bombing, with a halt to reinforcements on the ground by both sides, with ultimate negotiation of a ceasefire.

The terms of Mr. Brown's political settlement seem sensible, too. Free national elections within a stipulated time, an amnesty for all participants in the war, and a decision by the North and South Vietnamese governments, without outside interference or advice, "if, when and how" reunion should take place.

Moreover, Mr. Brown's suggestion that a strengthened International Control Commission—at present it consists of Canada, India and Poland—should supervise the disengagement and, with peacekeeping forces at its disposal ensure observance of the program, will meet with approval by the United Nations.

U Thant, the secretary-general, has suggested much the same thing.

In fact, it would not be surprising to find that he and Mr. Brown are moving towards the same goal, although by separate roads, for almost simultaneously with Mr. Brown's announcement of his program the UN secretary-general admitted he, too, was making a new peace effort.

In New York, State Secretary Dean Rusk intimated the bombing pause in the east half of the supposedly demilitarized "buffer zone" between North and South Viet Nam was intended as an invitation to some sort of reciprocal move by the Viet Cong and their allies. But so far there has been no sign of it.

Indeed, in spite of the efforts of London, Washington and the United Nations, Hanoi has once again demonstrated its determination to pursue its aim of subjugating all Viet Nam. It rejects the United Nations call for the scaling down of the fighting on the grounds that it is fighting a war against American aggression, that the United Nations has no business interfering, and that, in any event, the UN is nothing more than an instrument of American capitalism.

In spite of this intransigence, the pressures for a Korea-style peace will continue. And as long as they do there is hope.

Loss of Confidence

A RECENT SURVEY of public opinion indicates that the federal Liberal government under Prime Minister Lester Pearson has lost considerable support among Canadian voters in the past few months.

The popularity of the Ottawa administration, has, in fact, dropped from 44 per cent in January of this year to 37 per cent today. The Conservative Party on the other hand has increased in popularity from a low of 28 per cent to a high of 32 per cent at the present time. The NDP remains unchanged at 21 per cent.

It is more than probable that the Tory opposition will take great heart from this. However, before it attempts to read into it more than really exists, it would be well advised to consider the reasons for the apparent swing in popularity.

Even a cursory study of the factors contributing to the drifting away of support for the Liberal regime will show that it is the government itself that has created the change rather than any course or policy the opposition has pursued.

Indeed, it might be said that the Liberal administration is its own worst enemy. It might also be added that there is little likelihood of this trend changing for as long as Mr. Pearson's government continues in its failure to provide leadership for the nation.

Bannock and Beans

TRADE AND COMMERCE Minister Robert Winters has warned that Canadians may face a drop in their standard of living within the next few months.

Such a drop, he said, inevitably resulting in the devaluation of the dollar, is contingent upon two things: a continued decline in the country's competitive position in world trade; and a credit condition which would prevent the nation increasing her "already very deep international debt."

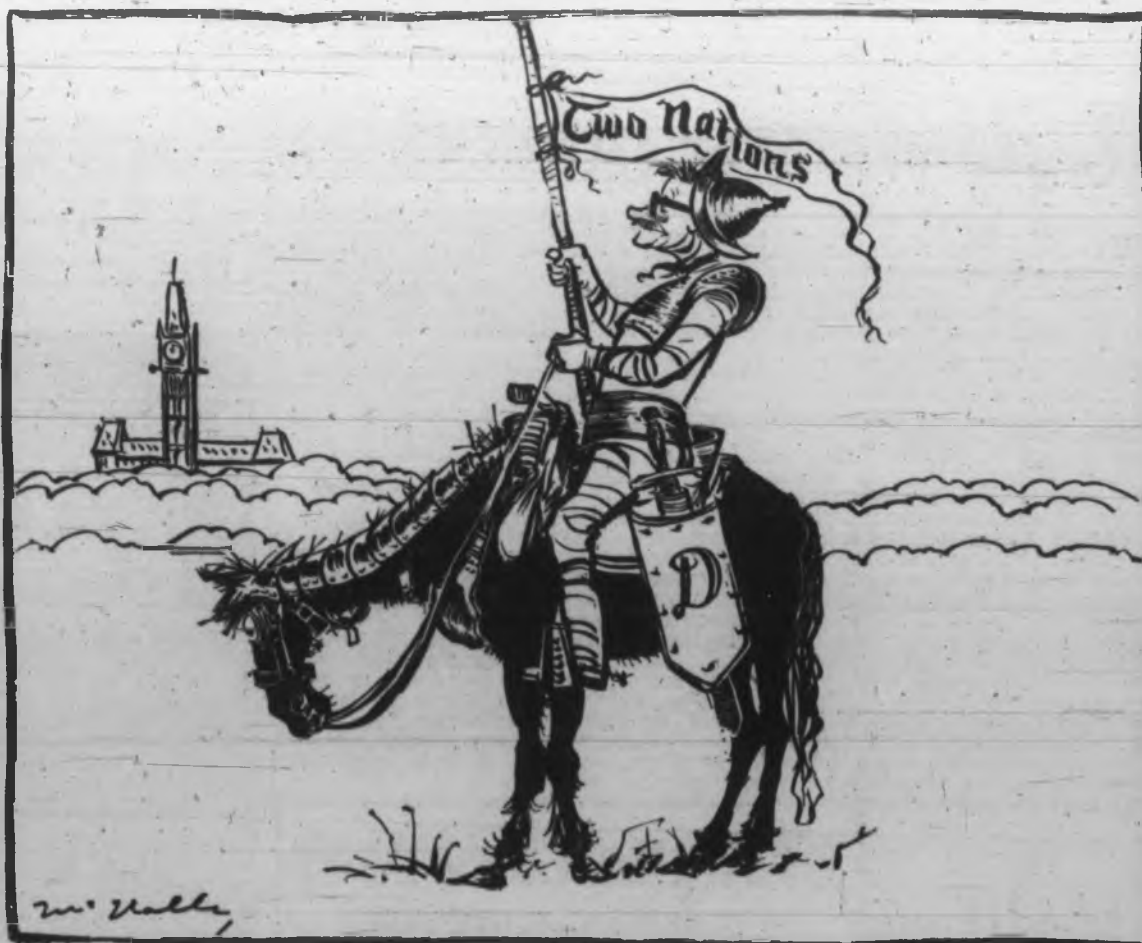

The minister undoubtedly put his finger on the crux of the problem when he pointed out "our wage costs and labor hours per manufactured item are rising faster than in the United States."

We are spending, in other words, at a faster rate than we can earn.

The remedy is obvious.

The lower standard of living foreseen by the minister may not reach the proportions festively suggested by Mr. Jerry Ackerman of the University of Manitoba as a method of meeting the high cost of living. Certain Indians and Eskimos, he said, managed to maintain themselves for about $67 a year on a diet of bannock, beans, lard, molasses and fish codder.

But there is no denying it might do us good as a people to figuratively tighten our belts a notch or two and try to reach a balance in what we earn and what we consume.

Missing a Self-Help Chance

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

THE 200 delegates to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference have moved out of the Commons and the 265 honorable members of the House have moved back in.

It was a natural if not exactly coincidental sequence of Centre Block events.

For among the many things the 265 honorable members will do in the weeks ahead will be to figure precisely which federal fund to tap to pay for the increased aid to 200 Commonwealth parliamentarians calculate Canadian taxpayers should pony up in their global generosity.

Additional, that is, to the annual $400,000,000 already being distributed abroad among people whose leaders holly present us for being in the position to give what we do and coldly rebuke us for not giving more.

So anything additional will come, as does all aid, from the treasury, out of funds which must be deducted from projects at home to afford this luxury of spending abroad.

As even now is happening with the government shelving those long-promised 10,000 university scholarships for worthy Canadian students while increasing scholarships for students from abroad.

The foreign aid lobby led by the external affairs department appears to have so brainwashed some of our MPs that they seem almost to apologize to those whose financial dependency carries an aura of superiority, for Canada's apparent unworthiness of being self-supporting.

The strange "double-think" of this apologetic state of mind has reached the point where "external" dealing with foreign affairs, enjoys a higher status than say public works, transport or any other department connected with domestic matters.

For in the supposedly democratic bureaucracy there is class distinction. You work FOR transport or public works, but you're IN external, and in few fields does a little prepositional make such a big difference.

Part of this double-thinking is that self-aid is somehow not quite respectable.

Thirteen of the Commonwealth countries are Caribbean, and to them the idea of self-help months ago was effected on a practical dollar-earning basis by an internationally recognized expert in the business of money-making.

He's Bertram Loeb, president of M. Loeb Limited and the Independent Grocers Alliance, one of the giants in the mass marketing of food.

He suggested that with the help he was ready to give, the Caribbean countries could cut themselves a good slice of the rich Canadian tropical fruit and winter vegetable market.

Currently, in turn, as the crops ripen, this market is carved up by Florida, Texas, California and Mexico.

The Caribbean can grow much the same produce, Mr. Loeb told Commonwealth representatives, but no attempt has been made to compete in the mass market.

He thought such a mission of food market experts could help enormously.

Sophisticated is the word for the Canadian food market, he advised them, and sophisticated their Caribbean production is not.

But it could be. That was months, long months ago.

And of the 13 Commonwealth Caribbean countries offered this expert coaching in mass marketing, only one, Guyana, expressed any interest in this kind of self help.

They've flown in some of their growers to explore the Canadian market possibilities for Caribbean-produced off-season tomatoes and drought-resistant north when the price runs 50 cents or more in the supermarket for a carload of five.

Would Bertram Loeb himself be ready to go? Be happy to any time, he said.

Washington Calling

YOU can hear in this capital of the motor state the stirring of great events to come. Preparation for the presidential campaign of Gov. George Romney has no official opposition from the governor, himself, who is spending most of his time on the stump aiming to roll up a whopping majority in re-election to a third term.

But in the swelling files of the names of tried-and-true friends across the country and in the plans to be unveiled shortly after Nov. 8, the launching is being prepared. Headquarters will be opened in Washington, New York and Detroit. Under the quiet guidance of Robert John (Jack) McIntosh, a former Michigan congressman, the nucleus of both a political and a non-political—the independent Romney-for-President clubs—attack is shaping up.

The professional politicians in the party around the country say it's too late. Romney has waited too long, and Richard Nixon is even now going from one congressional district to another nailing down the delegates who will pick him as the Republican nominee in 1968.

Only by a miracle, say the pros, could Romney capture his party's prize.

Romney is, however, a rugged believer in miracles. And in a sense his own political career, beginning with his first election as governor in 1962 and his re-election two years ago by a majority of 386,000 white voters rolled up a lead of 1,100,000 for Lyndon Johnson, is proof of the miracle.

That an industrialist preaching a jolly idealism on the rights of the individual could win in a state with the most aggressive trade union in America, the United Auto Workers, is the miracle. Romney's Democratic opponent this time, Zolman A. Auer, a comparative unknown who has never held elective office, has the all-out backing of the unions. But Romney made the claim before a cheering audience of the statewide AFL-CIO political action committee (COPE) that his polls show 82 per cent of unionists approve his handling of the governor's office.

For a proper launching Romney must win with a majority of 400,000 or more. Preferably he must pull in with him Robert P. Griffin, who is running for the seat to which he was appointed by Romney on the death of the Democrat, 72-year-old Pat McNamara. In almost every talk he makes the governor pulls Griffin, who is little known around the state.

How can Romney hope to get the Republican nomination when most of the state and county chairmen and the delegates to the convention are conservative regarding Romney as a defender for withholding endorsement of Barry Goldwater two years ago? The answer of his backers is first that millions of rank-and-file Republicans want to prevent a repetition of 1964 when the right look over and nominated Goldwater. They want a winner and Romney can convince them he is their man.

He will do this by going into the early primaries in 1968 confident that he can beat Nixon. If Nixon decides to stay out that will be proof that he does not believe in his own vote-getting ability. It will revive the two-dime loser image.

The first primary, New Hampshire, is made to order for their man, as the Romney planners see it. A dinner meeting in that state drew 1,500, and 400 stayed behind to shake his hand, many of them saying they would run for president.

Asked about New Hampshire's steepwheeler law he said it was immoral to use that kind of money to advance election.

Foremost in the calculation is the man himself. He shows some of the same aura as Dwight Eisenhower with whom he keeps in close touch. He expresses the yearning of so many people for the simple virtues of another time. As one of his cynical newspaper advisers puts it:

"You can't be sure what he's said after you've heard one of those stemwinders on morality and the home. But, boy, the way he says it!"

That dubious word charisma, the personal magic of leadership, is part of it. So are his own discipline and drive, the dedication that owes not a little to his Mormon faith. He believes in his own capacity to carry through, his own star, his destiny. This is part of the spell of the handsome, rugged-looking individual who took over in Michigan when the state was on the verge of bankruptcy. A constant throughout his career in politics is civil rights. But at the same time in typical Romney style he declares for and order.

So much can happen in the 20 months before the delegates meet in what often seems an exercise in national lunacy to pick a candidate. Ronald Reagan can become governor of California and the way-out Goldwaterites push him for the presidency. Nixon comes in as the compromise between Romney and Reagan.

But if calculations here are correct the will to pick a winner will triumph and the man whom the unionists deride as "Gorgeous George" will step confidently into the presidential arena.

Increasingly Common

"JEAN Marchand? Never! Rene Levesque? I'd rather emigrate to Australia. The Centennial is a failure because Pearson has weakly allowed the entire focus to be placed on Montreal and its Expo. Infidelity! It was the pay increase to the workers by Expo..."

The speaker was a man I have known for years and who had not, before, struck me as being against the French Canadians, but now he was blasting the entire country's life on French Canada. In the past, this man had backed a French speaking radio station for weeks, even a French speaking TV channel. He had sent his children to school to learn French—to a French school. He had spoken in favor of making the teaching of French obligatory. But he has changed.

"Language is the most majestic personality I have met. But he would be unacceptable to English speaking Canada as a premier. You like Marchand. He's a good man. But we couldn't accept him. The party that chooses a French leader will be buried at the polls..."

I tried to find out why this man felt so strongly. He did not have specific points to make but rather trends to which he objected and mannerisms that

When Mr. C. L. S. Cornwall-Legh, who is a company director and a landowner, refused some time ago to sign some probate papers under the first description and chose the second, the estate duty office refused to permit it.

Then when he gave his occupation as "jack-of-all-trades" and they saw he was in earnest and in no mood to be trifled with, they capitulated with "landowner" and no longer insisted on "company director."

I am sure the thing to do is to have more than one occupation and to be something else as well as a company director. The choice is entrancing. There are well over 100,000 different jobs that have been classified and recognized by the Ministry of Labor.

They range from "Alpine lift" and "Amazon skiver machine operator" to "zig zag machinist" and "zoological gardens keeper."

Every judge and jury in the land is becoming suspicious of those who plead guilty before the proceedings begin to being a company director.

But I think their hearts would warm to anyone who could truthfully say that he was a "straggler," a "haggler" or a "twiggler."

Trades to watch out for are "slayer," "slagger," "slasher" and "slasher," even though they are perfectly proper and legitimate occupations in the textile and leather industries. You might be misunderstood.

Among the hardest things to get changed are the archaic subjects taught in schools to our children.

Teachers are usually too lazy or indoctrinated to upset the established order, pupils are powerless and parents neither know nor care.

Young and tender brains wrestle with the bones of dead languages, the idioms of the square on the hypotenuse, Playfair and his drivelling Ashtun, from his hole-in-the-wall and that kid who problem about some fool trying to fill a bath with the taps turned full on and the plug out.

Now a macabre sea has been introduced to variety and the spice of death into a science lesson.

The following problem has just been set in school in Warwickshire:

I suspect that the same sort of thing has been happening in the teaching of French Canadian political statements into English. But this is not the only factor: Quebec has been more forward in its demands and more successful in getting them fulfilled. The Quebec argument that many of the changes were long overdue, like all such arguments, does not impress the other side. I detect a certain irritation at the new effectiveness of Quebec technocrats who do not at all fit the traditional image of the Quebecer—and the Quebec technocrat likes to rub it in.

And there is yet another factor: The U.S. dominance of our economy has meant that an increasing proportion of English Canada's elite has become deeply involved financially with the U.S. The focus, the nexus is south of the border, not across the Atlantic anymore.

The man who was exhorting Quebec was also telling me that if Quebec left confederation, the Maritimes would join the U.S. and then so would the rest of Canada. This influential man, moreover, really believed this would happen within 20 to 30 years and he viewed the prospect with an equanimity that is dangerous to our nationhood.

Occupations

Entrancing Choice

By CASSANDRA from London.

COMPANY directors as a whole, and in particular the Institute of Directors, are becoming worried—or perhaps I should say incensed—at the grimy reputation that is enveloping those who have achieved board room status.

They have my sympathy and I agree with them that something is wrong when "lary petty crock" or major one if it comes to that—is perfectly free to give 'company director' as his occupation simply because, at some time or another, he has spent £25 on buying himself 'company'.

When some of the most hair-raising villains ever to get dredged up from the gutters of crime find themselves in dock there are four occupations they give which occur with striking frequency:

The first is, as we have said, "company director."

The second is "unemployed."

The third is "truster."

And the fourth is "painter." "Unemployed" simply confirms that Satan soon finds evil work for idle hands to do.

The incidence of "truster" may have something to do with barrow boys but I prefer to think it all goes back to Eve, the "truster" who did such dastardly work with an apple.

The criminal tendencies of painters are not easy to explain either, so I will content myself with reminding you that had Adolf Hitler ever reached the dock at Nuremberg he could truthfully have described himself as a painter of the Viennese school.

"A man is hanging on a rope in a prison death chamber. What is the tension on the rope?"

The proper answer is "nothing compared with the tension of the condemned, his relatives, the clergyman, the prison officers—and probably the home-secretary and the executioner as well."

THE great golden cushion of my champion sunflower this year measures 16-in. across, has a stem—I prefer to call it a hole—2 1/2-in. thick, and the whole radiant display, reaching 10 ft. 4-in. high, emerges from a small space measuring 5-in. by 3-in. in a stone-flagged courtyard.

In my next passport, on Page 2, where you are required to state your profession, I shall apply to be known as a "Sunflower Grower."

And on the inside cover you will read: "Her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs Requests and Requires in the name of Her Majesty all those whom it may concern to allow the bearer to pass freely without let or hindrance and to afford the bearer such assistance and protection as may be necessary in pursuance of his Imperial Duties as Sunflower Grower."

In Britain

Canadian Houses

By THOMAS LAND
From London

IF you live in a frame home of the kind that makes up many Canadian suburbs, you are among the lucky householders suddenly envied by modern Britain.

Tired of the lack of central heating, of single windows and bursting water pipes, British architects, government authorities and real estate men have looked around for a new type of dwelling eventually to replace the old fashioned brick homes.

And, after some gentle persuasion by Canadians, they have decided that your home is the ideal solution to Britain's problems.

The first large-scale housing development project employing Canadian design and building materials is already under way. Situated in Harlow, some 25 miles northeast of here, the building site will shortly be transformed, under the supervision of Canada's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, into a 175-home community—probably similar to yours.

An executive at the trade and commerce department of the Canadian High Commission here explained: "The project will demonstrate the speed and efficiency of Canada's building methods. And, indirectly, it will advertise Canadian timber."

"Canada has been so closely linked in the building trade with timber frame construction that businessmen moving into this field almost inevitably specify Canadian timber and plywood."

For the first time in a quarter of a century, Canada last year supplied 26 per cent of Britain's total softwood requirements, earning roughly $150 million and replacing the Soviet Union as the country's major supplier.

The Harlow project has already attracted wide public attention here. The high commission has received several requests from other local authorities for similar undertakings.

The idea of mounting a Canadian development project in this country originated two years ago after a British government-sponsored housing mission was invited to Canada. Sir Donald Gibson, director of research and development in the British ministry of public buildings and works, brought back these impressions from the coast-to-coast tour:

"Houses in Canada, we found, were more comfortable (than those in Britain). They were warmer than ours in the winter and cooler than ours in hot weather. We felt that there was a great deal in the Canadian building methods which our country could follow with advantage."

"The construction techniques employed by Canadian builders are still new to us and quite different from those to which we are accustomed."

"There is no doubt that timber frame houses can be built more quickly than our masonry construction houses and there is reason to believe that they can also be built for less money."

Since then, Sir Donald has done a great deal to promote timber frame construction in this country. And so has Canada. The National Film Board, for example, has brought in a 30-minute training film explaining the method. A second NFB film on the subject is expected to be made while the houses are being put up at Harlow.

During the construction, the trade and commerce department is mounting a concentrated promotional program related to the scheme.

Chinese Reds Reap Dollar Harvest

Chinese Communists are the biggest capitalists in this bustling British Crown Colony. Their offices have all the appointments — from dia-phones to executive couches for an afternoon snooze — of top business leaders in London, New York or San Francisco.

If they were in Red China, such extravagances would be punished under the current Red Guard-led Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution which is trying to wipe out Western influences. But for Communist capitalists in Hong Kong it's "business as usual." Red Guards or no Red Guards.

And what a business! Red China earns more than $500,000,000 in U.S. dollars annually through Hong Kong. Through a slow and steady campaign, the Communists have gradually become the largest single department store retailers.

By EDWARD NEILAN
From Hong Kong

They also employ more workers than any single firm in Hong Kong. To push sales of their products, latest Western methods of packaging, merchandising and advertising are used to lure customers.

A few years ago, the Communist department stores had to virtually dump goods at low prices to get any customers. Now it's different. From musical instruments to bikini bathing suits, Communist-made products are finding a market.

It is estimated that between 60 and 80 per cent of Red China's foreign exchange comes through Hong Kong.

It funnels through the state Bank of China, Red China's financial window on the world. The bank is next door to the British-owned Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, the colony's leading bank.

Besides the Bank of China, the Communists control two dozen other banks, holding roughly 12 per cent of all bank deposits in the colony. These banks finance much of the mainland's world trade.

The large blocks of outgoing foreign exchange earned by the Red Chinese in Hong Kong go to pay Australia and Canada for the enormous shipments of wheat needed to feed a population that is about 700,000,000 by any estimate.

Although some of Red China's foreign exchange earnings through Hong Kong are made on items re-exported, most come from merely serving the nearly 400,000,000 people of Hong Kong.

Hong Kong pays $343,000,000 each year to Red China for these goods. Most of the colony's meat and eggs, sugar and fruit now come from Red China. Almost all of the sand that was used in Hong Kong's building boom came from Red Chinese beaches.

Red Chinese interests own more than a dozen movie theatres now, plan to buy or gain control of another 10 by next year.

Nuclear Dilemma Faces World

By M. D. LIPTON

Since the bleak day in August 1945 when an atomic explosion demolished Hiroshima, a crucial race has been in progress. On one side is nuclear destruction, on the other nuclear disarmament. The stakes are humanity.

The bomb which devastated Hiroshima 21 years ago was equivalent to 20,000 tons of dynamite. Today, thermo-nuclear weapons pack the destructive punch of tens of millions of tons of TNT.

Now, complete nations, hundreds of millions of people stand to be annihilated in a nuclear attack. The survivors of such an onslaught would almost certainly suffer an agonizing death resulting from radioactive poisoning of food, air and water.

Realizing these terrifying possibilities, the U.S. and U.S.S.R. agreed in 1961 to set up an 18-nation disarmament committee at Geneva, Switzerland. For the past five years, the delegates have achieved limited success.

Every week, until further notice, The Daily Colonist will publish, as a public service, an article on current affairs, designed expressly to assist senior high school students. The writer, M. D. Lipton, is a Toronto educationalist, specializing in political and economic science.

Peace Hope Fades

In 1963 they arrived at an agreement that was heralded at the time as a vital breakthrough on the road to disarmament and peace. Most nations of the world, except Communist China and France, agreed not to conduct nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water or in space.

In the same year a "hot line" was stretched between Moscow and Washington to avert the accidental unleashing of a nuclear war.

Three years later, the glow of these achievements has all but vanished. Dr. Sigvard Ekstrand, director-general of the International Atomic Energy Agency, has made the frightening forecast that by 1970 some 20 nations will possess nuclear power plants capable of manufacturing atomic bombs.

Rumblings about joining the nuclear club have been heard from groups of neighboring countries not seeing eye-to-eye. With each new nuclear power, the likelihood of a thermonuclear confrontation is greatly enhanced.

In this life and death struggle, a non-proliferation treaty would be a long step toward nuclear disarmament. An agreement of this nature would provide an important breathing spell and would put the brakes on the race to destruction. What are the prospects of such a detente?

Two Obstacles

Two obstacles stand in the way of an agreement to stop the spread of these arms. Although calling for total nuclear disarmament, the Chinese report they are developing destructive weapons to oppose the nuclear blackmail and threats by U.S. imperialists and its collaborators.

China opposes the U.S.-Soviet collusion to maintain a nuclear monopoly and "sabotage the revolutionary struggles of all oppressed peoples and nations."

Secondly, the Russians will only sign a pact which rules out the possibility of the Americans granting West Germany nuclear responsibility. So far the U.S. has rejected any wording that would prevent her from eventually fulfilling the desires of her NATO ally.

On the bright side, observers see a faint flicker of hope. Recent Chinese and French explosions have led to increased demands for production of nuclear weapons in Japan, India and Australia. The pundits believe these rising pressures will free the U.S. and U.S.S.R. to moderate their positions at Geneva while still possible.

Furthermore, it is felt that President Johnson, whose popularity at home has been sagging, might seek a non-proliferation treaty in the hope of reaping a political upsurge similar to the one President Kennedy experienced in 1963 after achieving the test ban treaty.

Can the Soviets and Americans come to terms? There are those in each nation who oppose any dealings with the other.

Will China disregard ideological differences and sign a disarmament concord? What chance has disarmament and non-proliferation without Peking's participation?

To what extent will the Viet Nam war militate against a disarmament pact?

U.S. Rightwingers May Invite Smith

By GORDON DONALDSON
From Washington

Rightwing U.S. supporters of Rhodesia's rebel Premier Ian Smith are planning to bring him to the United States on a lecture tour early next year.

This would bring violent protests from Britain and upset the U.S. state department, which wants to keep Smith out.

But pro-Rhodesian groups here have held secret talks with Rhodesian government officials who remain in Washington although without diplomatic status. They believe they can bring Smith over as a private citizen.

Powerful members of Congress such as segregationist Senator James Eastland of Mississippi are expected to support Smith's application for admission to the U.S.

They will use the argument that leftist foreigners have been admitted, so why not a rightwinger?

They believe he will appeal to the growing "white backlash" of Americans frightened by Negro rioting in the cities and the demands of extremist Negro groups.

A lobbyist for the pro-Rhodesians said: "The time is ripe for Smith and (South African Prime Minister) Vorster to make their pitch to white Americans.

"All they have to do is stress that their governments are stable, tough and anti-Communist."

Vorster is reported to have said he wants to visit the U.S. As the head of a government recognized by the U.S., his visit would have to be approved by the state department.

Smith's rebel regime is not recognized, so he could be treated as a private citizen.

Three-Year City Vote Proposed for Alberta

CALGARY (CP)—Alberta's revised City Act proposes civic elections every three years and three-year terms for aldermen and mayors. Municipal Affairs Minister A. J. Hooke said Thursday.

Elections now are held each year and terms run for two years. Mr. Hooke said in a telephone interview from Edmonton the act will likely go before the spring session of the legislature.

Parisians Afoot

PARIS (Reuters)—Thousands of Parisians walked to work Thursday and the French capital, hit by a 24-hour subway and bus strike, braced itself for the worst traffic snarls in its history.

The Paris transport workers went on strike at midnight Wednesday night in support of demands for better working conditions.

As traffic began to clog main arteries leading to the capital, taxi drivers warned they might also stay off the roads if the jams grow worse.

Army trucks were called into ferry commuters from suburbs to the city centre, but many workers were thumbing lifts or just walking.

Snake in Brew Fatal to Seven

RATNAGIRI (Reuters)—Seven persons died after drinking a homemade alcoholic brew into which a poisonous snake had fallen and drowned, police report in this Indian city.

Ottawa Planning Prod for Housing

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The government proposed to Parliament Thursday that it prod the lagging house- and apartment-building industry by putting more government funds into mortgages and increasing the total amount of private money that may be insured under the National Housing Act.

It asked Parliament to increase to $9,500,000,000 the total amount of housing mortgages, most of it supplied by life insurance and trust companies that may be insured by NHA. NHA-insured loans carry a government guarantee of repayment to the lending institutions.

It also proposes to increase to $4,000,000,000 from $3,250,000,000 the limit that may be loaned by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. out of government funds. CMHC makes loans of government money when funds are not available from the private lending institutions, which include the chartered banks and some other financial institutions.

RELAX RULES

The government also proposes to raise to $350,000,000 from $200,000,000 the amount which may be used to reimburse loans on housing projects for university students. The rules now in effect limiting student housing loans to projects on or near university campuses are being relaxed to include housing for students at vocational training schools and nursing schools.

NHA loans also are to be made available for renovations and for the purchase of existing houses. Hitherto there has been an NHA-assisted plan by which the chartered banks make loans of up to $4,000 each at six-percent interest for home improvements.

BANKS OUT

NHA housing loans now carry an interest ceiling of 8 1/2 percent. Because this is more than the chartered banks are permitted under the Bank Act to charge for loans, they have virtually ended investment in NHA loans. CMHC has had to move into the gap with direct lending from government funds.

The resolution said the purpose is "to further encourage the demand for housing."

It has been lagging. Measured by the number of new housing units on which construction started, demand has dropped from an annual building rate of 176,200 in the second quarter of last year and a peak of 179,000 in the final quarter of 1964, to 134,500 in May, June and July this year.

Philby

Defector Once Double Agent

LONDON (AP)—Harold Philby, former British intelligence agent who defected to the Russians, was planted in Lebanon and used for seven years by Britain as a double agent, says a book published here.

British author John Bulloch says in his book, Alvin to Treason, that both Russia and Britain suspected Philby and tried to use him to feed false information.

WHICH WAY?

Right up to the end it was a tossup which way he would jump when he lost his nerve or was "blown" by one side or the other, Bulloch says.

"Finally, it was the British, with the agreement of the Americans, who decided that Philby's usefulness was at an end."

In January, 1963, two British intelligence officers warned Philby the game was over, the writer said. He left Beirut in a Russian ship and now works in a publishing house in Moscow.

FEW FRIENDS

Philby, disclosed as a secret Communist, was dismissed from the British foreign office for tipping off his diplomatic friends, Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean, who fled to Russia in 1951. Burgess died in 1963. Maclean, one of Philby's few friends in Moscow, works at the same publishing house.

A British foreign office spokesman said there was "no comment" on Bulloch's book.

Gun Cruel To Dogs

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Thursday began a fight against mailmen being armed with pepper-loaded spray guns to fend off dogs.

"The use of a pepper gun would be cruel and is not the answer—it is up to the dog owners to curb their animals," said Francis Jones, executive director of the B.C. SPCA.

"The use of pepper on animals is definitely cruel, and it might even infuriate a dog into a violent attack on a mailman."

Supermarkets Undisturbed By Boycott

OTTAWA (CP)—Supermarket managers remained calm Thursday as they closed their doors after the first day of a housewives' boycott protesting high food prices.

"We haven't felt any signs of protest," said one manager. Another reported "no effect so far."

Mrs. Lawrence Wilson, 32, president of the Ottawa Consumers' Protest Association

Food Lower But Index Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Food prices fell a full point in the consumer price index last month but higher clothing and housing costs pushed the general index up two-tenths of a point to a record 145.1 from 144.9 in August, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

Regional Park Plan Studied

VANCOUVER (CP)—The city's board of administration has recommended to city council that Vancouver join in a regional park plan involving 15 municipalities on the Lower Mainland. Council will consider the proposal.

Which whisky do the Jones' really drink?

When it comes to whisky, the Jones' can afford to please themselves.

Yet they don't let others dictate their taste. They have taste of their own.

Which is why it's not surprising that so many of the Jones' drink Bonded Stock.

Gooderham's have been distilling fine whisky since 1832.

This is a smooth, mellow whisky with a flavour you don't have to disguise.

One other thing: you don't have to be one of the Jones' to appreciate Bonded Stock.

Channel Choice Big Need

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian need a choice of television channels more than any other form of new broadcasting service, the Board of Broadcast Governors said Thursday.

It announced steps to ensure that every chance will be given to introduction of alternate Canadian TV fare to those areas now limited to one Canadian channel.

The BBG said it will not accept applications to set up new amplitude modulation radio stations where local radio and TV service already is available.

NO DIVISION

In a policy statement following up the government's recent white paper on broadcasting, the BBG said:

"The board intends to pursue policies designed to ensure that commercial revenues which might otherwise be available to support alternative television service will not be diverted to less important broadcasting services."

The regulatory body also said it will continue its freeze on applications for third TV service in metropolitan areas except for proposals for educational TV.

BEST GOAL

The best goal to shoot for, the BBG said, is one giving viewers a choice between an outlet of the CBC carrying the corporation's national network service and a privately-owned station carrying the private network service.

Availability of money to feed second TV stations is a prime factor in extending such service, the BBG said. Because of this, it would undertake a study of the market areas which now have only single service.

City Kinsmen Council-Bound

Two members of the Kinsmen Club of Victoria will attend the annual fall council this weekend of all clubs in the B.C. district.

Dave McNeil and Don Burns will represent their club at the meeting in South Burnaby.

The study would determine the cost of introducing and maintaining second service and the advertising revenues available. It will be completed by next February.

The announcement noted the white paper's statement that the government would consider issuing new TV licences subject to the reservation of channels for the CBC in four areas—the Saint John-Fredericton area of New Brunswick, Sudbury, Ont., Saskatoon and Victoria.

This is a move in the direction of the ultimate goal of a CBC and private network channel for every viewer, the BBG said.

The board would deny any application not aimed at this ideal.

VANCOUVER (CP)

Arthur Lydiard, the man who coached Peter Snell and Murray Halberg, both of whom won gold medals in the 1960 Tokyo Olympics, said Wednesday officials planning the 1968 Games to Mexico City are out for publicity, not results.

Lydiard, a New Zealander, quit his $16,000-a-year track coaching job in Mexico because the Mexicans "didn't let me work."

"Myself, five Americans and 14 coaches from the Communist countries were just in Mexico for window-dressing," he said.

He accused Gen. Jose de J. Clark Flores, vice-president of the International Olympic Committee and chairman of the organizational committee of the 1967 Pan-American Games in Winnipeg, with being obstructive to the development of Mexico's athletes.

Altitude Under Study

MONTREAL (CP)—A group of seven Canadian Olympic coaches, a doctor and the executive director of the Canadian Olympic Association will leave for Mexico City Sunday to study high-altitude training for athletes participating in Mexico's 1968 Summer Olympics.

The sports week is organized by Mexico to permit committees from around the world to study the effects which the Mexican altitude of 7,500 feet has on the performance of athletes who usually compete at or near sea level. No Canadian athletes are participating in the sports week.

The COA's announcement said its team will be led by Dr. Paul Hanch of London, Ont., head of the COA's Montreal office, and Albert Vachon and George Gato, also of Montreal, will attend.

Four Toronto coaches, Jim Moosman, Marilyn Savage, Jimmie Sato and John Hudson round out the group.

Lions' Mitchell Gains In Western Scoring

B.C. Lions Bill Mitchell's five-point performance against Hamilton Monday moved him into fourth place in Western Football Conference scoring.

"He's not interested in training the young men to be good athletes, but more in impressing the political brass with the quality of the people he brings into the country," said Lydiard.

He said he would advise any country sending a team to the 1968 Olympics to send a liaison man three weeks ahead of time to try and iron out many of the problems that will arise.

Lydiard made the comments in an interview here en route to his home in New Zealand.

Dave Mann Retiring

TORONTO (CP) — Punter Dave Mann, with the Toronto Argonauts since 1955, announced Wednesday he plans to retire at the end of the current Canadian football season. He wants to devote his full time to his business career. Argonauts defensive back Jim Rountree signed a contract for 1966 and 1967. He planned earlier to play for a southern AFL team.

Football Merger In Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) — NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle said Thursday the merger of the National and American football leagues will be called off if the U.S. Congress opposes it.

In a statement presented to the House of Representatives antitrust subcommittee, Rozelle said the threat of legal action by the justice department or private individuals against the merger makes a congressional grant of immunity mandatory.

CELLAR ADAMANT

With Congress driving for adjournment, swift action by the House would be needed to meet Rozelle's ultimatum. But Chairman Emanuel Celler (Dem.-N.Y.) showed no intention of being pressed into quick action.

"The anti-trust subcommittee intends to explore thoroughly the extent of anti-trust immunity requested and the results that would flow from any such grant of immunity," Celler said.

ADJOURNED

Celler opened hearings on a Senate-passed bill that would exempt the merger from U.S. anti-trust laws, but was forced by an early meeting of the House to adjourn them before Rozelle could testify. The hearings resume next Tuesday.

Rozelle, in a statement, said the sum total of financial risk resulting from legal action "could easily be larger than the total value of, and net assets of, all the existing franchises."

Davis Goat, Palmer Star

'I Just Lost Them Both'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The odds on the World Series, even money after one Dodger defeat by Baltimore, swung to the Orioles by 3-1 Thursday after they whipped the fumbling Los Angeles club 6-0.

The Orioles confidently predicted an early victory while Willie Davis, unfortunate goat of the game that put the Dodgers down 2-0 in the best-of-seven series, said: "I just lost both of them in the sun."

There's nothing you can do about a case like that."

THREE IN TWO

The Dodger centre fielder set a Series record when he committed three errors on two consecutive plays in the fifth inning.

Before it was over, the Orioles had three runs in and Sandy Koufax was soon to go to the showers.

After the horror, Koufax put his arm around Davis' shoulder as the two headed to the clubhouse runway between innings.

"I told him not to let it get him down," said Koufax. "These things happen."

QUICK PEEK

Manager Walt Alton was asked if he said anything on the bench to Davis.

"I didn't have to. I saw what happened. He lost them—at least the first one, I'm sure—in the sun."

"I got a quick peek at the ball the second time," Davis said as he explained the bobbles in the dressing room after the game.

"I made a stab at it but it was no use. Sandy put his arm around me later and told me, 'Things happen like that.'"

DRYSDALE SIGNAL

"I missed only one other in the sun this year, at Pittsburgh."

"If I could see the ball, you know I'm gonna catch it."

As Willie Davis stood in his tiny dressing cubicle, pitcher Don Drysdale signalled to him to move out of discussion range.

But Willie stayed as long as anyone wanted him to talk.

What about a third fly ball that dropped between him and right fielder Ron Fairly off Frank Robinson's bat and went for a triple in the next inning?

NEITHER CALLED

"Neither one of us called for it," Willie said.

"I was just getting ready to call, then he called for me," said Fairly. "He'd run a long way and I've got to take as much blame as either of us. If I'd taken charge sooner, it might not have happened."

Alton said he took Koufax out after six innings "because I thought he was laboring a little, his arm maybe hurting, so I just decided to get him out of there."

TOUGHEST GUY

Left fielder Lou Johnson, who eased the booing pressure on Willie Davis between innings, said, "This was the toughest sun I ever seen."

Willie, Johnson and Fairly were teasing the ball back and forth in the outfield after Willie had been unmercifully jeered. Each time Willie caught a toss, the crowd cheered wildly.

Johnson dropped a throw from Willie—obviously on purpose—and the crowd roared in good humor.

PITCHING NORMAL

Koufax described his pitching as normal.

"My curve was coming in high but I'd say I was pitching normal—no worse, no better."

Willie was ready to pitch in Baltimore Sunday, following Claude Osteen's game.

"I'll be ready whenever the man asks me," said Sandy, referring to Alton.

MILLER CERTAIN

"There's no way we'll have to come back here," pitcher Stu Miller said as the Orioles prepared for a flight to Baltimore, where the next three games are scheduled beginning Saturday.

"I hate to win a game that way," Miller said, "but we'll take them any way we can get them. I'd rather just go out and beat them ourselves."

Infielder Bob Johnson noted that Lou Johnson of Los Angeles walked with his head down after making an out and almost delayed the game getting off the field.

BUNKER NEXT

"That exemplifies their spirit," he said. "I think we have them now."

Manager Hank Bauer, as usual, was making no predictions.

"It's gotta go four games and we play again Saturday. But, I must admit we're in pretty good shape."

Asked to name his pitchers for future games, Bauer said: "I don't know. We'll start with the third game and Dave McNally the fourth."

"How about the fifth?" someone asked.

"I haven't thought that far ahead," Bauer replied.

While happy over their victory, the Orioles showed compassion for Willie Davis and his unfortunate showing in the outfield.

"This park is worse than most," said Baltimore centre fielder Paul Blair, who had no trouble catching fly balls.

"The screen in back of home plate gives off a funny kind of gold glare and it's hard to pick up the ball. I didn't have any trouble—I was too scared."

"When a fly ball gets in the sun, there's nothing you can do about it but hope it falls in the glove."

Pitcher Jim Palmer, who hurled the pennant clincher for Baltimore on Sept. 22, blanked the Dodgers on four hits as he again used his new pitch, the slider, to keep the batters off balance.

Palmer didn't throw the slider in game competition until Sept. 22. Already, pitching coach Harry Brecheen is convinced it will make the 20-year-old right-hander a better pitcher.

Rookie catcher Andy Etchebarren estimated that of Palmer's 115 pitches, about 100 were fast balls. The rest were sliders, curves and change-ups.

"Somebody told me I'd better pitch, without today or I'd lose," Palmer said. "I don't remember who it was."

Shutout Puts Baltimore Two Up

Six Errors Sink Koufax

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers' defence collapsed in a record-tying six-error farce Thursday while Jim Palmer of Baltimore Orioles became the youngest pitcher to throw a World Series shutout with a 6-0 victory over Sandy Koufax.

It was the second straight victory for the Orioles, who went into the Series 8-5 underdogs. The Dodgers outdid New York Mets in their earliest days when Willie Davis, usually a fine centre fielder, made a record three misplays in the fifth and his mates chipped in with three more.

Many of the 55,947 fans began walking out in the late innings. Almost overlooked in this collapse of the defence - minded Dodgers was the four-hit job done by young Palmer, who will be 21 Oct. 15.

The youngest pitcher previously to pitch a Series shutout was Waite Hoyt, who was 22 years and one month when he blanked the 1921 New York Giants for New York Yankees.

BUSH YOUNGEST

In fact, the youngest ever to work a complete Series game was Bullet Joe Bush, who was 20 years, 11 months when he did it for the Philadelphia Athletics against the Giants in 1913.

The last team to make six errors in a game were the 1917 Chicago White Sox. The 1906 White Sox and the 1908 Pittsburgh Pirates share the same disgrace.

Koufax, the 27-game winner whose last - game victory clinched the pennant for the Dodgers last Sunday, was an innocent victim of the embarrassing collapse.

DAZZLING SUNSET

He was working on a two-hitter and in a scoreless duel with Palmer when Willie Davis got the wildest in the dazzling sun.

When Sandy left after six innings, he had allowed only one earned run among the four Baltimore scorers.

That was more than enough for Palmer, a youngster who likes to ward off the evil spirits by carrying bubble gum in his hip pocket and wiffing down pancakes for breakfast.

You had to see this fifth inning to believe it and it still is hard to believe.

POWELL STARTED

It started out calmly with a single to left by Bog Powell, only the second off Koufax. Brooks Robinson fouled out. Then it happened.

Paul Blair lofted a high fly to centre which Davis seemed to lose in the sun. At the last minute, he grabbed for the ball around his knees, but it fell out of his glove for a two-base error.

Andy Etchebarren, the next batter, looked at a ball and missed two strikes before he, too, hit a ball into short left centre.

LOST IN SUN AGAIN

In came Willie, but once more he lost the ball for an error. Davis compounded the goof by throwing the ball wild over third base and Blair followed Powell across the plate.

It was the first time in World Series play that a player had made three errors in the same inning. In fact, the record for a game is three.

Luis Aparicio's double to left knocked in Etchebarren with the third run and it was all over but the booing.

Palmer's single knocked in the eighth with the help of another error, this time a wild throw by relief pitcher Ron Perrenzo.

Palmer struck out six and walked three, including one intentionally. The only time the Dodgers had more than one man on base in an inning was the second when a walk to Fairly, a double by Lou Johnson and an intentional pass to Wes Parker filled them up. Koufax ended it by popping out.

With a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series, Baltimore now takes a commanding position.

Same Story As Last Year?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Is history repeating itself?

In 1955, as this year, the Dodgers lost the first two games of the World Series. Then they went on to win three in a row and finally took the Series in seven.

Baseball experts are inclined to think it won't happen again. Last year, Los Angeles lost two at Minnesota, then won three at home; this year, the two opening defeats were in Dodger Stadium and now the club must win at least two of the three in Baltimore to stay alive.

Refurbished Totems Last Test for Leafs

Victoria Maple Leafs wind up their pre-season exhibition schedule Saturday night at Memorial Arena when they entertain the Seattle Totems.

Seattle looks to have a much stronger team than during last year's Western Hockey League season.

WARD BETTER

On defence the Totems have Don Ward, who is recovering from a back operation.

Also returning are Larry Hale and Adam Keller. Hale has been with the Totems three years and has shown improvement each year. Keller joined the Totems last year.

Two Montreal Canadian farmhands, Jean Gauthier and Bob Lemieux, round out Seattle's defence corps.

YOUNG AND OLD

Up from Seattle is a sprinkling of youth and experience. Jumbo Jim Powers, Guyle Fielder and Bill Dineen form Seattle's main line. Three other returnees, Gerry Leonard, Don Chiz and Earl Helakala, form the second Totem line.

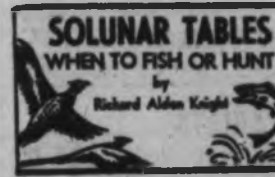

Coach Bill McFarland re-acquired Chuck Holmes in a trade for Gordy Sinclair during the off season and his addition should help the Totems immensely.

LOOK TO LUND

Larry Lund, acquired by Seattle from San Francisco last year, is back in Seattle livery and the Totems are expecting another good year from him.

Guarding the nets will be veteran Jim McLeod.

Two Leafs are classed as doubtful starters. Don Borgeson, with an injured shoulder, and Mike Labadie, with a sore elbow, may not see action.

According to the Solunar Tables calculated for this year, the best times for fishing and hunting are shown on Pacific Daylight Time:

Canucks Edge Bucks

COQUITLAM (CP)—Gordon Vojprava scored late in the third period Thursday night to give Vancouver Canucks a 3-2 exhibition Western Hockey League win over Portland Buckaroos here.

Larry Fopein and New Westminster amateur Paul Shmyr got the other Vancouver goals, while Alain Caron and Bill Saunders replied for Portland.

Canucks take on Seattle Totems in a game in Richmond tonight to wind up their exhibition series.

Four More Sign

Steelers Grow

Victoria Steelers general manager Pat Frumento announced Thursday night the signing of four more players to Steelers contracts.

The four, Don Paulsen, Mike Begg, Gary Dalton and Kevin Murphy, are expected to be with the Steelers Sunday afternoon when they visit Edmonton Warriors.

Paulsen and Begg are half-backs while Dalton is a tackle and Murphy is a guard. All four are E.C. Lions property.

Sunday's game will be broadcast by CJVI.

Five O'Keefes Ailing

Vancouver Firefighters come to town Saturday for a game with O'Keefes which could give either or both a piece of first place in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

A win will mean a one-point edge over the current leaders, USC Thunderbirds. Should they tie, all three teams will share the lead.

Inside forward Peter Brett will be starting, but O'Keefes could be in trouble despite his return.

Jim Menzies will be out for at least a week with a bad ankle and Geoff Sweet injured a foot at work. Tom Westwater and Don McIntosh are battling the flu and Ed Carson is tied up in Port Alberni this weekend.

Dunc McCall is slated to replace Menzies, with John Hiberson and possibly one more called up from the juniors.

Hockey, Soccer Today

Victoria High Tyees, who lead Mount View and the Oak Bay by one point in the high school soccer league, travel to Mount View today for a fight for first place.

Winlock Mount Douglas has a chance to leave the cellar when Esquimalt visits. Both games start at 4 p.m.

Another event tonight is the Esquimalt Hockey League's all-star game at 8:15 in the Esquimalt sports centre.

Tudor Monarchs will play a team composed of men in the other two league teams.

Big Forest Tax Yield Needs Big Plow-Back

The provincial government will receive about $26,000,000 more in taxes from the forest products industry this year than it did two years ago, and should be spending more money on reforestation, according to the

B.C. Council of Forest Industries. The council's monthly newsletter, Forest Industry Facts, pointed out Thursday that the forest industry is the biggest producer of tax revenue in this province.

It estimated that in 1964 the industry provided $192,000,000 in taxes, including more than $100,000,000 to the provincial government, more than $80,000,000 to the federal government and about $10,000,000 to municipal governments.

APART FROM INCOME

The council estimates that 1966 taxes will reach $245,000,000, of which $126,100,000 will go to the provincial government, $108,100,000 to the federal government and $10,800,000 to municipal governments.

"The $245,000,000 total does not include the income and other taxes paid by the 77,000 people directly employed in the industry, who draw wages and salaries in excess of $425,000,000 per year," states the newsletter.

"Just as businessmen must put back a sufficient portion of the proceeds to ensure continued operation, so too, must government plow back a percentage of its revenue to ensure a continued tax base from which to draw in the future."

REFORESTATION

"It is to be hoped that the increased emphasis on reforestation, evidenced by the allocation of 35 per cent more money to reforestation in the provincial estimates for 1966, will continue."

"Even with the increase, only seven-tenths of one cent out of each tax dollar derived from the forest industry in B.C. is being spent on the restocking of cut-over lands."

Longer Term Pushed

PENTICTON (CP) — Students may not agree, but British Columbia's school trustees are plumping for a longer school year.

The B.C. School Trustees Association in convention here Wednesday endorsed a resolution urging the provincial government to make the school year a minimum of 200 days instead of the present 191.

Trustee Walton Tennant of Kamloops, sponsor of the resolution, said the school year could be lengthened to 200 days by starting classes at the first of September, rather than after Labor Day and by shortening the Christmas holidays.

GIVE TAXES BACK

More than 70 per cent of Oslo taxpayers were eligible for city tax funds, with interest, this year.

THANKSGIVING DAY

A great day to discover how little long distance costs

On this special day the voices of loved ones, perhaps from hundreds of miles away, have a special place in our hearts. Memories are sharpened, experiences recaptured. It is a day when togetherness means so much and—as always with B.C. TEL—costs so little.

Now a student son or daughter away at college can afford a long distance call home (especially if they call "collect"). Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditures which, over the years, have lagged far behind the general rise in other living costs. In fact, many long distance calls actually cost less in dollars and cents today than 10 years ago. Moreover, after 6 pm and all day Sunday they are cheaper by about one-fifth.

Check the rates yourself in your telephone book or dial "O" and ask the operator. You'll be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there." Here, for example, are a few current charges:

VANCOUVER—PRINCE GEORGE..... $1.35
NEW WESTMINSTER—CALGARY..... $1.50
VICTORIA—TORONTO..... $1.95

(Evening, station-to-station calls, first 3 minutes)

On this important day of the year there's more reason than ever to use Long Distance for all it's worth!

Names in the News

Quickly-Wed Couple Joins Fire-Fighters

MOUNT VERNON, Wash. — The Rev. Howard Spurling of Day Creek Free Methodist Church was performing a wedding at the church when the community fire alarm sounded, presenting him with a problem.

Mr. Spurling is a member of the volunteer fire department at Day Creek, a community 15 miles east of here.

Then the whole wedding party including the bride and groom went to fight the fire at the nearby Vio Goethal home. Despite their efforts, it burned down.

MONTREAL — Georges Lemay, 41, wanted here on a warrant for the 1961 looting of a local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, arrived by plane and was met by a combined squad of 24 city, provincial and federal police officers.

JAKARTA — Indonesian President Sukarno wept as he visited for the first time the graves of six army generals slain in last year's abortive Communist coup.

MOSCOW — Chi-Chi, the London Zoo's female panda, rejected the advances of the Moscow Zoo's male panda An-An during an unsuccessful 25-minute effort to perpetuate the panda species.

Mexican Peninsula Threatened

Inez Aims at 'Thumb'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ex-ratic hurricane Inez, blocked from moving up through the Gulf of Mexico by a cool air mass, spun its 110-mile-an-hour winds toward Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula Thursday.

The New Orleans weather bureau predicted Inez would move late at night into the northern Yucatan Peninsula, where the great Mayan civilization flourished shortly after the time of Christ.

The hurricane's course was west-southwest, and its speed was 10 miles an hour.

Mexican fishing boats sailing off Yucatan were ordered to seek refuge in Campeche, the peninsula's major port.

The Yucatan juts from Mexico into the water like a thumb, the Gulf of Mexico on its northern side and the Caribbean on the southeast.

Inez took one last vicious blow at Cuba early Thursday before heading toward Yucatan. Cuba's tobacco crop was heavily damaged by driving wind and rain.

CANE FLATTENED — When the storm swept across the eastern part of Cuba earlier, cane flattened sugar cane fields.

Inez killed more than 150 persons in the Caribbean, possibly many more in Haiti.

Two persons were electrocuted and another drowned on the northwest coast of Cuba, Havana radio said, when the storm passed Wednesday night.

It brought the announced death toll in Cuba to four.

HUNDREDS HURT — Hundreds were hurt during Inez's earlier assault on Cuba.

New Orleans, still not fully recovered from the fury of hurricane Betsy 13 months ago, watched warily, fearful the storm would pierce the high-pressure ridge which has blocked any northward movement.

However, Stephen L. Lichblau, head of the weather bureau, said there appeared to be no chance Inez would head northward.

"Right now, we're not particularly concerned."

By City

Inquest Bill Dodged

Ald. Clyde Savage said Thursday he didn't see why the city should pay a $452.50 bill for an engineering study made in connection with an inquest, even if it was ordered by the chief of police.

City council finance committee decided to pass the account along in the hope that an insurance company will eventually take care of it.

The bill was from the consulting engineering firm of A. R. Sanderson and Co. Ltd. and followed a study and reconstruction of an accident at Victoria Machinery Depot plant in which a crane toppled and a workman, Oliver Goldsmith, was killed.

ORDERED BY CHIEF

Members of finance committee were told that the study was ordered by the chief on instructions from Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre, in an effort to place responsibility for the accident.

"Who pays the coroner? Do we?" asked Ald. Savage.

He was paid by the provincial government, the alderman was told.

INSURANCE?

"Then let the provincial government pay this bill. We don't want to set a precedent here," the alderman retorted.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow suggested that the account be sent to VMD in the hope that their insurance company would take care of it. The company should, after all, be most interested in placing responsibility for the mishap, he said. Aldermen agreed.

A new schedule of fees for electrical permits and rates for inspection, submitted by the city engineer at the request of the finance committee, was approved. Aldermen were told there were increases all along the line.

Study Starts On German In Schools

Dr. J. Beattie MacLean, associate professor of modern languages at the University of Victoria, has been elected chairman of a national committee that will study methods of teaching German in high schools across Canada.

The committee includes representatives from each province. It plans to make recommendations to provincial departments of education on methods of standardizing instruction from one province to another.

COPENHAGEN-MOSCOW

From Montreal starting November 1st Air Canada adds two fascinating destinations to its international system.

The inauguration of a new service of major importance marks a remarkable step in Air Canada's continuing growth.

Andersen's lovely maiden guards the entrance to Copenhagen harbor.

Fly Air Canada to Copenhagen, open door to all Scandinavia: a wondrous world of good taste, good food and good fun.

In Copenhagen old salts rub shoulders with silversmiths, cabinetmakers open their shops to visitors, some menus are four feet long, jolly matrons prepare scrumptious smorrebrods and Tivoli Gardens have a monopoly on laughter. A skip and a jump: boats, trains and connecting airlines take you to the fjords of Norway, the avant-garde world of Sweden and the unheralded beauties of distant Finland. The Scandinavians are crack designers. In their hands crystal, silver, teak or cloth turn into miracles of lissome simplicity. Shoppers, beware! Unsuspected temptations are likely to turn your head dangerously. So, fetch your maps, ponder brochures, and prepare your Scandinavian foray!

The golden bulbs of St. Basil's on Moscow's Red Square.

Air Canada: first North American airline to fly to the U.S.S.R. —and without change of plane!

On Tuesday evening, November 1st, a DC-8 bearing the Maple Leaf emblem leaves for Moscow's Sheremetievo airport. This inaugurates, with Aeroflot (the national airline of the Soviet Union), the first and only same plane service between Canada and the U.S.S.R. From then on Air Canada's route system will stretch from the shores of the Pacific, half way around the world, to the heart of the Soviet Union.

Overnight the Canadian traveller will find himself by the Kremlin's ancient brick battlements, peering at the golden bulbs atop St. Basil's, shopping at the G.U.M. and sitting for a dazzling performance at the Bolshoi Ballet. So, suddenly an old cliché comes to life: go to Moscow... "it's the trip of a lifetime". Your travel agent is an expert: he will give you all the details about your trip to Scandinavia or the U.S.S.R. Or call Air Canada at EV 2-5141

Actress Boosts Damage Claim

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actress Hedy Lamarr's court fight against publication of Ecstasy and Me, the purported story of her life, will be expanded to include new defendants and seek $17,000,000 in damages, her attorney disclosed Thursday.

Jordan Wank said an amended complaint already had been filed in superior court to increase the original damage claim of $8,000,000 and that another amended complaint would be filed "within the next 10 days" to include "new defendants."

Miss Lamarr, 52, sought last month to block publication of the book, claiming it was "fictional, false, vulgar, scandalous, libelous and obscene."

NO INJUNCTION
Superior Judge Ralph H. Nutter said on Sept. 26 that the book was "filthy, nauseating and revolting." But the judge refused to issue the Vienesse-ban actress a permanent injunction barring publication of the book.

The judge said he had no legal grounds to issue the injunction against the ghost-written book to be published by McFadden-Bartell Corp.

Wank also indicated that plans to secure an injunction have not been abandoned.

Miss Lamarr claimed that accounts of adultery and perversion in the book were fictional, false, vulgar, scandalous, libelous and obscene."

The actress contended that material contained in the book was not on tape-recorded interviews she made in connection with the alleged autobiography.

In fighting the injunction request, the publisher claimed that "we are dealing with the experiences, sexual, of a woman only thing she had to sell was out of pictures for 15 years and her sex life."

who made and lost $15,000,000 and was in the doldrums."

An attorney for the publishing firm added that Miss Lamarr "was desperate and wanted to do something to revive her name in the public mind and the only thing she had to sell was out of pictures for 15 years and her sex life."

Canadian Films Honored

LA FELGUERA, Spain (CP-AP)—Two Canadian films, both National Film Board productions, won awards at the fifth international festival of cultural films here.

The Shape of Things, a 10-minute color film of the 10th North American symposium of culture held in Montreal in June, 1964, won the best short-length award.

The best documentary award went to 60 Cycles, a 16-minute color film of the Tour du St. Laurent, the longest bicycle race in the world, held annually from Montreal, Que., to Montreal.

The Shape of Things, completed last year, shows the progress made by 12 sculptors from nine countries who were set to work in their own styles and choice of materials.

Made in 1965, 60 Cycles, has since been translated into many languages and has won a number of international awards.

Poland's I Have An Edge won the festival's top award. Destination: Man, an American film, received the award for best scientific experimental film.

Commission Favors Interim Raise

OTTAWA (CP) — The civil service commission favors an immediate interim salary increase to compensate for rising costs for about 100,000 federal employees in the operational category and will discuss the matter with staff associations next week, John J. Carson, commission chairman, said Thursday.

The category includes members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers and the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, who are threatening a Christmas strike over wage demands.

PREVENT STRIKE

They have indicated an adequate interim increase could prevent a strike.

A full cyclical salary review for the operational employees is scheduled to start early next year, and is expected to involve staff associations negotiating directly with the treasury board under the proposed collective bargaining system.

But, "in view of the fairly rapid upward movement of salaries in the last year," the commission feels it should recommend "an immediate down payment effective Oct. 1, 1966," Mr. Carson said in a statement.

LAST INCREASE

He said the commission had the responsibility to make recommendations to the government until the collective bargaining system comes into effect.

The last increase these employees received was 3.5 per cent in August, 1965, following a report by Judge J. C. Anderson involving the postal strike.

In Truscott Case

'Silent' Witness Still Unheard

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. William E. Pace, a dermatologist who volunteered by letter to testify at the Supreme Court of Canada's rehearing of the Steven Truscott murder case, has been unavailable for comment since he left Ottawa Tuesday without appearing before the court.

Dr. Pace, who said in September that he had volunteered as a witness, was expected to take the box when the case opened Wednesday.

However, he spent Tuesday in conference with justice department officials and lawyers connected with the case and then returned here. His lawyer, William R. Poole of London, who accompanied the doctor to Ottawa, also refused comment.

NO EXPLANATION

It was announced Sept. 20 that the court was calling Dr. Pace as a witness in the government-ordered rehearing. No explanation was given.

Truscott, now 21, was convicted when he was 14 for the murder of Lynne Harper, 12, in June, 1959. He now is serving a life sentence in Collins Bay penitentiary in Kingston, Ont.

Dr. Pace examined Truscott, at his counsel's request, five days after the boy was charged with murder. However, the doctor was not called as a witness in the 1959 trial.

Dr. Pace

"No one knows of my findings," Dr. Pace had said earlier. "My examination was in strict confidence but the opinion I had to offer were not asked. When the Supreme Court decided to reopen the case, I felt it was my duty as a citizen to inform them of my knowledge. I volunteered by letter."

Jail Sentence Given Man In Assault Case

A young man was sentenced to jail Thursday after being found guilty of assault causing bodily harm.

Tarvan Sihota, 2500 Wark Street, was remanded in custody until Oct. 11.

George Sterling, 412 Powell, received eight stitches above his eye following the fracas, at which the charge was based.

OTHER CHARGES

A charge against Sihota and Amarjit Singh, 2511 Rock Bay, of causing a disturbance was dismissed. A charge of wilful damage will be considered Oct. 11.

Mr. Sterling told the court he had been sitting in the beer parlor at the Colony Motel with his wife and another couple near a table occupied by the accused and three friends.

His friend had a nodding acquaintance with the four occupants of the adjoining table, and rounds of beer were exchanged. Mr. Sterling said Sihota was trying to persuade his wife to let him have a drag on her cigarette but when he was offered a whole cigarette he refused.

HIT BY GLASS

Sterling said an altercation sprang up and some beer was poured down his back. He went over and grabbed Sihota. He said Sihota threw a beer glass at him, catching him on the forehead.

His friend, Kevin Laurie, 515 Admirals Road, said Sihota had struck Mr. Sterling with the glass, but didn't throw it.

The accused and his three friends in later evidence denied that a glass had been used, and defence counsel Dermot Owen Flood suggested the injury to

Mr. Sterling's face could have been caused by broken glass on the beer parlor floor when he fell after being punched by the accused.

BROKEN GLASSES

In earlier testimony, beer parlor waiter William Jack Webster said that by the time the melee broke up, close to 100 glasses were smashed. He said between 20 and 30 people were involved.

One of the witnesses at Sihota's table, Puran Singh, said the two men at the adjoining table had sworn at them and told them not to talk too loud and not to talk in their own language. At one point he said the term "black bastards" was used.

Magistrate William Ostler said he was satisfied with the evidence that the injury had been caused by a glass which had been wielded by Sihota, whether it was in his hand or not.

Leslie Ironside was remanded to 2:15 p.m. Oct. 20 for sentence on several counts of false pretences and one charge of theft over $50.

Fined $35 for careless driving were Doris M. Banks, 1830 Croissant Road; Ellen A. Cornish, 6281 March Road; Michael George White, 2219 Blanshard, and James I. Parkin, 3376 Anchorage Road.

Esquimalt

Better Force Soon

Plans for the continued improvement of the Esquimalt fire and police department will swing into gear now that the results of the police union court case have been announced, Reeve Ray Bryant said Thursday.

County Court Judge Mr. Justice J. S. Aitken ruled Wednesday against the method used to introduce the police union's case.

Police were contesting their dual role of policemen-detectives.

NEW WING

Reeve Bryant said Thursday he intended to recommend that council consider construction of an east wing on the municipal hall to replace the present facilities which the police commission and reeve feel are inadequate.

"The efficiency of our present force is good, but with greatly improved facilities their service and protection for the taxpayers should be even more efficient," he said.

STAFF ADDITIONS

He said he also intended to include several obvious accompanying recommendations, such as the addition to the staff of a clerk-communicator classification which would free the highly trained men from these duties.

"I feel that the combined force for a small municipality such as ours is the best arrangement for the taxpayers. I feel also that we must be prepared to spend some of the savings that accrue as a result of this combined force, and to re-invest in our force and its facilities, to give us even better protection," he said.

BALANCED BUILDING

"A new east wing added to the municipal hall will also add to the general over-all appearance of our hall, and will give a balance to the west wing which was completed a few years ago," he said.

Septic Tank Dumping Stopped

A septic tank cleaning service has stopped dumping raw sewage in Central Saanich, Coun. Harold Andrew said the firm, which had an agreement with a farmer, ceased leaving waste in the municipality before a bylaw was adopted which would put an end to the practice.

The sewage came from septic tanks in neighboring municipalities.

Neighbors feared that the waste would contaminate their wells.

Boy Drinks Kerosene

Three-year-old Robert Woods at 833 Shelton Road, Langford, was reported in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital late Thursday night. He was taken to hospital Wednesday afternoon after accidentally drinking kerosene.

Parking Penalties May Hit Shopping

The question of whether or not an increase in parking meter fines would drive shoppers out of downtown was a consideration Thursday when members of city council finance committee discussed the issue.

"It will, you know," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow. "It shouldn't even be considered. It will have the effect of weakening the downtown and strengthening the outside shopping centres, many of which are outside the city's boundaries."

The mayor didn't think so, and neither did Ald. Clyde Savage.

NEW OBJECT

Ald. Savage said he had questioned many merchants and didn't find one who objected to the increase from $1 to $2.

But, said the alderman, he

Tories Plan Trip To Hear Camp

Victoria Young Progressive Conservatives plan a car pool to take them to Vancouver Tuesday to talk to Dalton Camp, national Conservative president who has been pressing for a party decision on the leadership of John Diefenbaker.

The Victoria group, which has supported Mr. Camp's move, learned Thursday that he would be unable to visit Victoria this trip.

Stigma Now Fading

By JERRY BOULTBEE

Jimmy is a little tyke with no front teeth and a grip like a steel vice.

When I asked him his name, he playfully threw up his dukes and then walloped me on the kneecap.

He's a little more forward than most kids. In fact, he's completely unshutted.

He's also retarded, and will probably never attain a greater mental age than seven years.

Jimmy attends the preschool department of the Woodwynn day nursery, which is one of several department run in aid of retarded children and adults by the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded.

The association is a member agency of the Community Chest, which supplies the bulk of its support.

Mrs. Winifred Clark is used to showing people about the association's premises at 1450 Elford. And she's the sort of person who can deliver a full and hard-hitting message on her subject in simple, direct terms.

Executive director of the association, Mrs. Clark received her training in care for the mentally handicapped in London, England, in 1933.

"That was a long time ago, and the course I took was one of very few available in those days in Europe," she said.

Attitudes are changing, she says.

There used to be a stigma to mental illness or retardation.

"And I still have a great deal of work to do with the parents of retarded children, preparing them to face the fact."

"But there's a different sort of acceptance of it now than there used to be. It's due largely to a much greater degree of public education on the whole subject."

The association's facilities include the pre-school department, a day nursery for crib cases twice a week, an occupation program for 18-year-olds and up, and a sheltered workshop for the same age group.

Home counselling facilities, a well-balanced recreation program, a library, a newsletter and public speaking are also part of the total service.

All this is run by a permanent staff of nine.

"But I can honestly say we'd never get anywhere at all without the help of volunteers," Mrs. Clark says.

There are 16 of them, including Mrs. Ivy McAdams. I asked her why she chose to do this type of work.

She was playing with little Jimmy at the time, and the question surprised her some. Then she said:

"It's just the best way of occupying my time. I can think of it helps me to count my blessings."

In other portions of the complex, words of the association were being taught to occupy their time usefully and thus improve their own morale.

Some of the finest looked rugged men were being turned out by the hands of these handicapped people. Others were busy polishing driftwood to make lampstands, refashioning furniture, cooking and raising numerous foodstuffs.

"We manage on a small grant from the school board, and on private donations. But most of our income is from the Community Chest," Mrs. Clark said.

Why Victoria should buy parkland on one hand and try to sell it on the other was beyond the understanding of Ald. Clyde Savage at a meeting Thursday of the city council lands committee.

His bewilderment arose from the fact that a drive-in theatre may be located right across the road from Beaver Lake Park. Aldermen were told there had been developments from the city's offer of 18 acres of land, part meadow and part treed, to a national theatre chain.

RECENT REPLY

The offer was made in August. No reply was received until recently.

On Thursday aldermen were told that the land would bring at least $100,000 into the city's treasury but Ald. Savage couldn't understand why the city would even entertain such an offer.

GOING OVERBOARD

"We must be going overboard. We, as part of the region, are buying property out there for parties on one hand, and on the other we are selling land," he said.

The tract, known as the Game Farm is on the east side of the Patricia Bay Highway. It once comprised about 38 acres, but in the past five years, five acres have been sold to a Victoria doctor for a hobby farm, and 15 acres to the adjacent Royal Oak Burial Park for cemetery expansion.

SPLIT PARK

City Assessor Alfred Joyce said it was decided by city council years ago to gradually dispose of the land because the highway divided it from the park on the west side of the road.

He had been negotiating with two companies for disposal of the land, the assessor said, and had mentioned a possible price of $100,000.

"The people I was talking to didn't turn a hair," he said.

PROPERTY REZONED

He added that Saanich recently rezoned some nearby property for industrial purposes. It was now valued at $25,000 an acre.

Ald. Savage repeated that the deal just "didn't make sense" to him.

"In any event, $100,000 is a ridiculous price for this land. It should be worth five times as much if it must be sold at all," he said.

HIGHWAYS INVOLVED

Mr. Joyce said that before anything was done, the provincial department of highways wanted to be consulted, so city authorities will confer with the department and with Saanich officials.

Kerensky arrives at university

Russians Want Freedom As Much as Anyone Else

Russians want freedom as much as anyone else, Alexander Kerensky declared in Victoria Thursday.

A central figure in the Russian revolution of 1917, the 85-year-old Kerensky told a packed audience of 500 at the University of Victoria that Russians understood and wanted freedom when he tried to give it to them.

He recalled the idea that democracy failed in Russia because the country was "barbaric."

A lawyer noted for defending victims of czarist oppression in 1917, Mr. Kerensky was a member of the pre-revolutionary government.

With the abdication of the czar and collapse of the army himself propelled into the premiership of the country in the summer of 1917.

NOTED CONTEMPORARIES

At 37, he was a contemporary of Woodrow Wilson, Clemenceau, David Lloyd George, Kaiser Wilhelm II, Czar Nicholas II — and Lenin.

A Bolshevik coup led by Lenin toppled the moderate Kerensky government in the fall of 1917 and changed the history of the world.

After an unsuccessful counter-revolution, Mr. Kerensky fled to western Europe, and for the past 20 years has lived in the United States. He has spent the latter part of his life writing and lecturing on Russian affairs.

Though unsteady on his feet, he spoke vigorously in broken English to a mixed audience which jammed the lounge of the Student Union Building.

ARMED REVOLT

He said the fight for freedom began in Russia in 1825 with an armed revolt by intellectuals and imperial troops.

"Until my time this fight names will be abandoned."

continued without stop," he said.

He urged his student listeners to help do away with "mechanical" international dealings. "My young friends, bad means justify only a bad end," he said.

He quoted Stalin's famous reply to the Soviet official who warned him about the displeasure of the Pope:

DIVISIONS

"How many divisions has the Pope got?" Stalin asked.

"This business of divisions is at the bottom of all international diplomacy," said Mr. Kerensky.

"It's your job to see the end of it."

Phone Book Growing

There'll be $,000 new listings in the new telephone book that goes into effect Dec. 1, bringing the total to 64,000.

For the first time, there'll be no prefixes such as GR or EV. After Dec. 1, all phones will be listed as seven digits.

B.C. Telephone Co. will also be using larger type, seven-point instead of the current six-point.

Motelmen Propose Huckster Cure

'Let Everyone In on Causeway Act'

Hucksterism on the Causeway might best be abolished by everyone getting in on the act.

"That way the police will have to kick everybody off," said a member of the B.C. Motels and Resorts Association. The group met Thursday to discuss several thorny issues, including gas rates. (See also Page 18.)

The association unanimously agreed that its president, F. W. Martin, should write a letter to Mayor A. W. Toome protesting the abuse of privileges on the Causeway.

"Undoubtedly the huckster behavior of some concerns is having adverse effect on tourism and so is also the degree of misrepresentation by some other concerns," said Mr. Martin.

He mentioned, particularly, the tourists' frequent misapprehension that two wax museums — "one of which uses mannequins, not wax figures."

"ONE WAX FIGURE"

However, he said the firm was legitimately able to advertise itself as a wax museum "because they have one wax figure that I know of."

William Webb, president of Victoria Restaurant Association, was invited to attend the meeting to explain a plan about by most tourist organizations to urge reductions in the price of B.C. Hydro gas at Victoria.

"We're asking party with the mainland and I don't see why we should have to pay two and one-half times more than commercial gas-users on the mainland."

"To cook a steak, it literally costs us two-and-one-half times what it costs to cook a steak in Vancouver," he said.

Mr. Webb explained this was because gas used on Vancouver Island has a 40 per cent less heat-value than the type used on the mainland.

"It's a utility, and the rates should be the same throughout B.C. — as with electricity," said Mr. Webb.

ONE ORGANIZATION

Discussion on publicity ranged for a considerable period, with members agreeing that there are too many organizations representing motel operators in the Victoria area. It was felt that a single, strong organization would best promote the aims of the trade.

Mr. Martin told members advertising dollars in winter should be concentrated on the Prairies rather than the Pacific seaboard.

He felt Prairie residents are more likely to be persuaded to leave hearth and home to escape the rigors of Prairie winters than they would be persuaded to come to Victoria from areas where the winter climate is little different.

Duncan IODE Plans Real Bargain Market

Duncan Dogwoods Chapter of the IODE is holding its annual Bargain Market, on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 10 a.m., in St. John's Hall, Duncan. Items in first class condition and suitable for every member of the family will be on sale. Members are working furiously to get all items cleaned and pressed, sewn and sorted, priced and tagged, and are still begging for more. The ladies' clothing section, convened by Mrs. J. J. Tassin, could still use more clothes and the helpers appeal to anyone who has good used items to call the co-conveners of the sale, Mrs. A. Conway at 746-6336 or Mrs. W. Supe at 746-6463.

Members Honored

Victoria Lodge, Order of the Royal Purple, has paid tribute to several members recently. Mrs. Doreen White, PHRL of Oliver Lodge received a 15-year service pin, a gift of her home lodge from Mrs. M. Huddleston, also PHRL of Oliver Lodge.

Life Membership certificates were presented to Mrs. Alice Herbert and Miss Jessie Hull, both of Victoria.

A miscellaneous shower was held in honor of Mrs. Sandra Thody, a recent bride. Corsages were presented to Sandra and her mother, Mrs. Sally Begg.

Another popular stall will feature hats, jewelry and accessories, and the white elephant stall, will prove most interesting. Here many a clever shopper may buy at a fantastic, low price a genuine bargain in china, or perhaps a rare piece of silver, or even a small useful appliance. There will be shoes for everyone—in the family, toys and games for the children, books and records for relaxing moments, home cooking for everyone's fancy, and even some brand new and exciting presents for the early Christmas shopper.

Proceeds go largely to Educational Scholarships and Bursaries, and to help furnish a play therapy room in the new Duncan Hospital.

Flavor Pumpkin Pie with Ginger

To many Canadians, the turkey is the symbol of Thanksgiving. To others, it is the big orange pumpkin that brings to mind the day.

Modern day pumpkin pie naturally has a finer flavor and smoother texture thanks to our mechanical appliances and convenience foods. A delicious example of 20th Century cookery is Pumpkin Pie with Ginger Meringue.

PUMPKIN PIE WITH GINGER MERINGUE

(Makes 9-inch pie)
One and one-half cups sugar, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, ½ teaspoon each: nutmeg, cloves, ginger and allspice, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups canned pumpkin,
3 eggs, separated, 1½ cups
(large can) undiluted velvetized evaporated milk, 9-inch unbaked pie shell, 2 tablespoons chopped candied ginger.

Mix together 1 cup of the sugar, spices and ¼ teaspoon of the salt. Blend in pumpkin, egg yolks and evaporated milk.
Pour into pie shell. Bake in 425-degree oven 15 minutes; reduce heat to 350-degree oven and bake 40 minutes longer. Cool.
Beat egg whites and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt until stiff but not dry. Gradually add remaining ½ cup sugar and beat until very stiff and glossy. Spread meringue over cooled pie, sprinkle with candied ginger.
Bake in 450-degree oven 5

VELVET PUMPKIN TARTS

(Makes 14 3-inch tarts)
Three cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 cup shortening, 6 to 8 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup sugar, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, ½ teaspoon each: cloves, allspice, nutmeg, ginger and salt, 2 eggs, 1½ cups canned pumpkin, 1½ cups (large can) undiluted velvetized evaporated milk.

Sift together flour and 1½ teaspoons salt. Cut in shortening.
Gradually add water, mixing lightly with fork. Press into ball. Roll out on lightly floured surface to ¼-inch thickness. Cut out 14 4-½-inch circles and 14 2-inch stars. Line 14 3-inch tart pans with pastry circles. Place stars on baking sheet.

Blend sugar, spices, and ½ teaspoon salt together. Add eggs, pumpkin, and evaporated milk; mix well. Pour into unbaked tart shells. Bake stars in 425-degree oven 12 minutes, or until lightly browned. Bake tarts in 425-degree oven 10 minutes, reduce to moderate 350-degree, and continue baking out clean. Cool. Top tarts with about 40 minutes, or until knife baked pastry stars.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: This morning at 3 a.m. an attractive 19-year-old boy was wheeled into the emergency room. It seems this fellow (I'll call him Roy) and his buddy had had three or four (or maybe it was five) beers. Roy was driving, fell asleep at the wheel and went off the road.

In a couple of hours Roy was sitting up in bed, smoking cigarettes and joking. He had some—out of the—accident awfully lucky—only minor bruises. When he asked what room his buddy was in, I told him I didn't know—that he had not been admitted to our floor.

Roy suddenly said, "I'm going to settle down from now on. I really learned my lesson."

The next morning Roy got the news. His buddy wasn't in the hospital. He was in the morgue. Too bad he didn't learn his lesson 24 hours earlier, before he killed his best friend.

NIGHT NURSE: In the majority of fatal accidents, it is not the driver, but the person seated next to the driver, who becomes the statistic. And so it was with Roy's best friend.

Your letter should be a warning to all teen-agers drivers who think a few beers won't affect their ability to handle a car.

Dear Ann: Please don't think my problem is too dumb to print. I need to know how long a kiss is supposed to last.

I go with a great girl who happens to be a Yogi fan and a medal-winning long distance swimming champion. I hate to admit it but she's in better shape than I am.

Last night she got sore at me because I broke away first when we were kissing. She claims "I rejected her." I told her I did no such thing. She said a fellow is never supposed to break away from a kiss first, that he is supposed to stay with it just as long as the girl does.

Is she right? What are the rules? Please advise me—WINDED.

Dear Winded: I know of no rules on kissing. People are supposed to make up their own rules as they go along.

I suspect it's not RULES that you need, Buddy-Boy, it's endurance. If you plan to continue with this girl, you'd better get in shape.

Milkowski-Mons

Priest Uses Holy Water

Holy water from Lourdes, France, presented to the bride by Bud Britton and Gil Gibson of San Francisco was used by Father J. Planeta at the wedding of Karen Lynn Mons and Richard Henry Milkowski which took place recently in Sacred Heart Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mons, Greenwood Avenue, was given in marriage by her father. She was lovely in a floor length gown of organza styled with Empire bodice and elbow-length sleeves of lace. Lace applique was on the skirt which featured a detachable Watteau train falling from a back bridal bow. A headpiece of crystallized stephanotis held her full cathedral veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Mrs. Wendy Kennedy was matron of honor, Misses Barbara Mons and Sheila Corfield, bridesmaids and Irene Milkowski, junior bridesmaid.

They wore floor length, Empire style gowns of rainbow chiffon over shocking pink taffeta with matching headpieces. White carnations and ivy were in their cascade bouquets.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Milkowski, Market Street, had Mr. Gordon Kennedy as best man. Showing guests to the pews were Mr. Randy Dow, Mr. Walter Ryan and Mr. Delmar Hall.

A reception followed at Chez Marcel where the bride's table was centred with three tiered cake decorated with pink carnations. Mr. Clair Clift proposed the bridal toast.

Leaving for a honeymoon in California the new Mrs. Milkowski wore a light blue wool dress with matching jacket, a hat in smoky blue shades, navy accessories and pink gardenia corsage. On return they will live at 450 Simcoe Street.

Playschool Bake Sale

The Humpty Dumpty Co-operative Playschool, Lakehill, will hold a bake sale, specializing in home-baked breads and pies, in the Shop-Easy Store, Shelbourne Plaza, starting at 10:30 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 15. Proceeds to be used to purchase supplies for the Playschool.

Officers Installed

The St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society held their installation of officers Thursday in Holyrood House. In front of a large audience officers installed were: president, Mr. Ian Bruce Campbell; past president, Alderman Robert Baird; 1st vice-president, Mr. Joseph Sutherland; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. John Hadden; secretary, Mrs. Gerald Inglis; treasurer, Mrs. James Kemp; financial secretary, Mrs. James McAulay; warden, Mr. James Kemp; guardian, Mr. Lyle Robertson; outer guard, Mr. George Frazer; paper, Pipe Major Ian Duncan; chaplain, Mrs. Tom Grant; pianist, Mrs. Duncan Stewart and historian, Miss Georgina Mackay.

A supper was served in the Scotia dining room, and dancing to the music of Gerry Inglis completed the evening.

Victoria City Police Ball

The Victoria City Police Mutual Benefit Association has issued invitations to the fifty-third annual ball, to be held Friday, November 4, at 9 p.m. in the Empress Hotel.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Hamill of Kelowna and formerly of Victoria announce the engagement of Mr. Hamill's only daughter, Ruth Evelyn, to Mr. John Richard Marshall, only son of Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Marshall, Maple Bay, V.I. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Oct. 22, in Kelowna. Rev. Hamill will officiate at the ceremony. The bride-elect is a 1965 graduate of St. Joseph's School of Nursing and the groom-elect received his BSc degree from University of Victoria in 1964. — (Miss Hamill's photo by Chevrone Studio and Mr. Marshall's by Simpson Studios)

Jane Kennedy Honored

Miss Jane Kennedy has been widely feted with parties and showers prior to her forthcoming marriage. She will wed Robert Jack Casey this Saturday.

Yellow roses en corsage were presented to Miss Kennedy when her chosen bridesmaid, Miss Inga Andersen held a shower in her Homer Road home. The honor guest's mother, Mrs. S. Kennedy, received pink carnations. Gifts were concealed beneath a decorated umbrella. The refreshment table was centred with a shower cake.

Attending were Mrs. D. McKee, Mrs. K. Oliver, Mrs. K. Logan, Mrs. G. Amy, Mrs. W. Station, Mrs. A. MacLachlan, Mrs. M. Boronovsky, Mrs. L. Hanford, the Misses Marie Logan, Margaret Oliver, Dana Jones, Donna MacLachlan, Ann Burkard and Gabi Siedel. Gifts were also sent from Mrs. C. Casey, Youbou, and Mrs. I. Noble, Long Beach.

A decorated pink box contained the gifts presented by Mrs. F. Lewis, Mrs. H. Harvey, Mrs. D. Fetherley, Mrs. M. Grist, Mrs. W. Francis, Mrs. E. Bowring, Mrs. I. Grommers, Mrs. H. Gurnie, Mrs. L. Miller, Mrs. H. Andrew, Mrs. L. Jeeves, Mrs. A. Mischki, Mrs. I. Stothers, Mrs. M. Johnston, Mrs. P. Birkett, Mrs. K. Tuckey, Mrs. I. Morrison, Mrs. P. Coates, the Misses Sharon Bowen, Dorothy Taylor, Inga Andersen, Dana Jones, Betty Taylor, Marsha Stephens, Liz King, Anne Burkard, Barb Smith, Deanna Bowen-Green and Donna Lucas.

A model blue and white house trailer contained gifts when the bride-elect's chosen maid of honor, Miss Marie Logan, and her mother Mrs. K. Logan held a shower in their Edgeware Road home. Yellow roses and white carnations en corsage were given to the honor guest.

Games were played and refreshments served to Mrs. S. Kennedy, Mrs. K. Oliver, Mrs. W. Marshall, Mrs. G. Marshall, Mrs. R. Peaker, and Miss Margaret Oliver. Gifts were sent from Mrs. J. Weil, Mrs. A. Kemp, Mrs. A. Arnhold, Mrs. A. Wilson, and Mrs. J. Noble. Mrs. A. Stonehouse and Mrs. R. Gudbranson of Long Beach.

Bronze-toned chrysanthemums were given to the bride-elect and her mother received pink carnations when Mrs. T. Noble gave a grocery and recipe

Qualley-Day

Small Reception Follows Wedding

A wedding of interest took place in St. Peter's Hall at Maple Bay last Saturday when Esme Allan Day was united in marriage with Dr. O. E. Qualley of Duncan.

Rev. R. B. Knipe officiated.

The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Hamish Mutter, was attended by her twin daughters, the Misses Dorna and Diana Day.

The groom was attended by his older son, Mr. Stewart Qualley.

A small reception was held after the ceremony when the bride and groom received relatives and friends. Mrs. A. A. Mutter, mother of the bride, poured tea and Mr. Fred Price proposed the bridal toast. Upon their return from a trip to the Mainland, Dr. and Mrs. Qualley will live in Duncan.

Beauty Advice

"...I have never yet seen a finer method of improving the complexion. Wrinkles are smoothed, freckles are checked, blemishes vanish and the skin takes on a healthy sunshine look" — (extract from a report by Lila Hamilton suggesting the use of the moist discovery found only in "2nd Debut"). It is used as a powder base! Most drug and department stores are now able to obtain supplies of this discovery that uses moisturizing action to help give sunshine loveliness to the skin. For the information of readers the moisturizing skin discovery referred to is known as CEF 606 in single strength and CEF 1200 double strength. It is found only in "2nd Debut". Special introductory offer to my readers only! You will be mailed postpaid the $2.25 demonstration size of the regular $2.15 value 2nd Debut with CEF 606 if you send only $1.00 to me, Lila Hamilton, Beauty Start Writer, Dept. Tiny Hummer Solves Dilemma

FULFORD — High on the 60-foot TV antenna, dozens of young swallows congregated for a last brush-up on flying technique.

Papa Swallow was there to put the youngsters through their paces. The small tree swallows were kept busy by a tough sergeant in Papa Swallow.

He put them up to acrobatic stunts, even hanging upside down on the wires, and swinging up and over. He had every youngster follow him in these stunts, and darting, flying, swooping—they exercised their wings in every possible way. Papa even showed them how to wash the back of their black little heads.

His method was simple: each bird tipped back his head as far as he could then flipped his tail up and brushed his head. They did this several times, preened and flapped their wings and went through the whole performance time and again.

And always there was Papa, or several Papas, leading in all exercises. For two days, those mosquito chasers went through their paces, then one morning—dilemma.

Not a swallow in sight or sound—and we knew that the first lap of summer was over. How quiet and still—and lonely—it seemed at first; no more chattering, darting swallows until next spring.

The first batch of the lovely little hummingbirds had left just before the swallows. They had been busy raising dozens of golden, ruby-throated and emerald-throated youngsters all summer, and we got to know a lot of them.

You see, they discovered our conservatory off the dining room and they made daily visits to sample the nectar from a variety of flowers not found in the garden.

One of the favorite plants was the lemon-scented geranium with its tiny mauve cluster of flowers. A hummingbird would fly a "million miles" for one taste of this.

An amusing episode came about between a tiny ruby-throated hummingbird and a shrimp plant. The bird discovered the plant one day and tasted the nectar for a possible snack. Delicious! he hummed enthusiastically, stuck his long slender bill with its long tongue deep into the flower and drank.

Now the shrimp plant has flowers shaped like a shrimp, and of the same color, and at the end is the tiny white flowerlet with its slender petals sticking out not unlike tentacles, giving the effect of a real live shrimp.

All this was lovely to Mr. Ruby-throat; but the first time he emerged from a long drink, he brought the white flowerlet with him and there he hovered with this ridiculous decoration fringed around his bill, close to his beady little eyes and blocking his view.

Well, I had never seen a hummingbird look astonished but this one did. He started back-peddalling, opened his bill—the white thing fell stick, and there he was, crowned like the Queen of the May.

When he found flying backwards did nothing to help matters, he got another idea. This time he darted into an empty shrimp flower and presto—emerged triumphant, leaving his decoration behind. That saved the day and considerable bad temper, for it is well known that the hummingbird possesses the shortest temper in bird-land. He is also very short sighted. But certainly not short on brains.

However, Mr. Ruby-throat continued to feast on the shrimp flowers and invariably had to divert himself of the white decoration. But he had learned something—and so had I.

Though our first batch of swallows have gone, there are still a few left, also a hummingbird or so. Most likely these are the late young ones or fledglings as swallows sometimes hatch out a second lot.

Haig-Brown:

Pollution Danger Is Rising

CAMPBELL RIVER—"This is the meeting to discuss the dangers of pollution to our natural resources," Roderick Haig-Brown said in a speech here Thursday night.

More than 250 people heard his speech on pollution.

"Due to the increase in industrial expansion," he said, "pollution dangers are increasing."

IDEAL TIME

"It is an ideal time for discussion on, as public interest is growing faster than ever before in my memory."

He said prevention is easier than control. "Control much easier than cure."

The Campbell River magistrate said, "we have pollution already."

"For control to be effective, it must come from three levels of government—federal, provincial and municipal level."

"Highest control is only 90 per cent effective," he said.

OTHER GUESTS

Besides Mr. Brown, the co-ordinating chairman, the panelists included Howard Paish of the B.C. Wildlife Federation, Dr. John Ross, Campbell River, Professor John Pringle, University of Victoria, and Dr. Alan Austin, also University of Victoria.

Dr. Ross, substituting for Dr. George Gibson of Upper Island Health Unit who had other commitments, compared definitions of pollution.

"Industry thinks of it as water too dirty so no one will drink it, but pollution to a layman is any damage to our environment," Dr. Ross said.

COSTLY CAUSE

Dr. Alan Austin, a University of Victoria biologist and another panelist, said "any alteration of our environment is pollution."

"Ignorance of ecology is a contributing factor and one of the costly causes of pollution," he said.

"A great need for wilderness reserve is evident to preserve a sample of our ecology," he added.

Mr. Paish outlined examples of pollution already existing across the province.

LISTS SPOTS

Among those are Okanagan Lake, Columbia River and the Fraser, he said.

"We are attacking a 20th-century problem with 19th-century standards," he said. "If we cannot maintain environmental quality in a wilderness park we haven't a hope anywhere else."

"This is why Strathcona Park is so important," he added.

Mr. Pringle spoke for the younger set. He said what we need most is "dynamic politicians and better education of the public."

Fire Officer To Come From Ranks

Saanich council's fire committee will suggest that a training officer be appointed from among the members of its own fire department, chairman Colin Allan Newberry said Thursday night.

The man would be responsible for a system of promotions based on ability and training.

At a meeting earlier this week, the committee decided that the recommendation go to council as a suggestion for the 1967 finance committee.

An earlier report was unclear on the point of whether the training officer would be appointed from outside or within the department.

Left on 10-Day Holiday in 1952

Mother, Son Reunited

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver mother's 14-year-old search for her son ended Wednesday when she spoke to him by phone at his home in Denver, Colorado.

Mrs. Frances Karesa said Thursday she had almost given up hope of finding the boy, who was seven when he disappeared with his father on a "10-day" holiday in 1952.

That was the last she saw or heard of him.

The boy, now aged 20, married and with a baby daughter, grew up believing his name was Richard Robinson, an American citizen.

Only recently did Robinson, a filing clerk, discover his real name was Malcolm Richard McDonald, that he was living in a country where he did not belong, and that his mother and 15-year-old sister were living in Vancouver.

"I am still a little numb from the shock," Mrs. Karesa said Thursday. "I only found out when he was after newspapers carried the story of his real identity."

"I had almost given up hope, but there was always hope that when he grew older, he would try to find his family. This is exactly what he did."

"Now we're all happy and we're going to get together as soon as possible."

From Englewood, a Denver suburb, Mr. McDonald said he wanted to stay in the U.S., but would visit his mother.

Colorado state congressman Roy McVicker introduced a bill Tuesday before the house judiciary committee that would grant Mr. McDonald, who has technically been living illegally in the U.S., resident status.

Two-Day Berthing Being Ignored

Local citizens who are berthing boats and yachts at the Inner Harbor floats for extended periods should be warned they are breaking the rules, in the opinion of the harbor and transportation group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

In a letter to the mayor and city council, the group's chairman, George Farmer, asked that such people be told that they must obey the posted rules, which allow a stay of 48 hours.

If this rule is disobeyed the chamber group suggests enforcement action should be taken.

Another letter from the same group says that a number of members have complained that the harbor is not clean.

It suggests that the cleaning contract be reviewed to see if the situation could not be corrected.

Records Taken From Studio

Thieves ransacked the offices of Arthur Murray Dance Studio, 715 Yates, overnight and some 100 long-play records valued at $350 are missing.

Thieves also made off with between 30 and 40 cartons of cigarettes from the warehouse of Cost-Lo Food Market, operated by David Quan at 3060 Cedar Hill Road.

Ready by Spring

New Park Planned For Cordova Bay

The Cordova Bay area will finally see its own park development this fall, Saanich parks and recreation chairman Com. Ed Lum said Thursday night.

He said the municipality has the documents putting under its control an eight-acre site in the Lochside area and all that's needed is to register them with the parks department.

WINTER PROJECT

Com. Lum said plans are to develop the park as a winter work project and have it ready for use next year.

"Instead of trekking for miles, ball teams will be able to play in their own district," he added.

Mr. Lum also said Saanich will start work on the nine-acre Gorge Park as soon as it is formally acquired from the city of Victoria.

It had been under the management of the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee but Mr. Lum said Saanich thought it could do a better job of putting it to public use.

Look what Andre's have been biding in the cellar

A delicate, ruby Beaujolais—a charming Vin Rosé—a light, dry Moselle from the preferred late-bearing vine—and an extra-dry Cocktail Sherry, in the true Fino tradition. Not 'new' wines (they've been aged in Andre's oak casks far too long to be called 'new'), but wines that are now making their debut under the aristocratic label: Andre's Regency Wines. These superb wines have been hidden in the cool shadows of Andre's cellars, waiting for the moment their bouquets would be most tantalizing, their flavors most exquisite. That moment is here. Hotel Advice Ignored Atlantic Funds Spent TORONTO (CP)—The president of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. put $1,540,000 into the Bahamas Beach Hotel in The Bahamas despite advice to the contrary, a business promoter and one of the original developers of the hotel told the Hughes roy J. commission Thursday.

Louis Chesler, 54, appeared voluntarily before the commission which is enquiring into the collapse of the $150,000,000 finance company.

He told the commission one of his companies set out to build the hotel at a cost of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. But when it was finally completed the cost was $9,000,000.

WITHOUT MONEY
He said Allan Manus, another former Toronto business man, told him shortly after the collapse of Atlantic that he had acquired a 44-per-cent interest in the hotel without putting up any money at all.

He said Mr. Manus also received a six-passenger plane, a boat, a car and furniture, plus about $340,000.

Mr. Chesler's company, Grand Bahamas Development Co., undertook the hotel project shortly after he became a part owner in 1961. Before it was finished the company was "pretty well forced to sell the hotel."

DECIDES TO SELL
In mid-1963 Grand Bahamas Development decided to sell. Adobe Ltd. and Freepor International, both Manus companies, agreed to buy it. GBD agreed to take a $5,000,000 first mortgage.

After the sale was completed, Mr. Chesler said he met Mr. Manus and C. Powell Morgan, president of Atlantic. Asked why Mr. Morgan was there, he said: "I guess he personally brought the cheque (for $1,540,000, representing the down payment)." "I told Mr. Morgan I didn't think it was a first-class investment for him."

When Atlantic's creditors moved to seize the hotel following Atlantic's collapse, Mr. Manus was paid $2,600,000 for his ownership interest.

WELL KNOWN
Mr. Chesler is well known in North American financial circles and is almost a legend on Bay Street here.

A graduate of Peterborough school, he made a fortune in mining stocks during more than 20 years of trading. In the 1950s he went to New York where he became one of the biggest business promoters in the U.S. He helped build Seven Arts Productions, a major movie production company; and General Development, a large Florida real estate firm.

Emile Belgens, 1802 Holly-wood Crescent, has looked further into the success of the mass march idea which he suggested to the tourist industry group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce last week.

The group laughed at the suggestion, which Mr. Belgens said would be a great tourist lure here.

Gibraltar Ruling Sought

LONDON (AP)—Britain announced Thursday night it will propose that the International Court of Justice at The Hague rule on legal aspects of its dispute with Spain over the future of Gibraltar.

A foreign office statement said that when British-Spanish talks on the western Mediterranean fortress are resumed next Monday, British delegates will put the proposal to the Spanish.

Loyalty Never Involved

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday night the Gerda Munstinger inquiry did not involve any question about anybody's integrity or loyalty.

The prime minister, interviewed on the CBC, said the inquiry revolved around whether there had been a security risk and whether action should have been taken.

Mr. Pearson said he hopes the matter will be dropped and that Parliament will devote its time to legislation this fall.
The report by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada into the Munstinger anti-security affair criticized Opposition Leader Diefenbaker for his handling of the case when he was prime minister.

The pilot, Capt. Henry Schindler, said: "I hope this will convince someone to do something about eagles around Port Hardy airport." He said the birds are protected but "should be killed off."

The pilot said two big eagles swooped at his plane just as it took off. One avoided the plane, but the other struck a wing, punching an 18-inch hole. Remains of the bird were found on the Port Hardy air strip and in the damaged wing.

"A recent article in a pilot's magazine says not to try to avoid birds," said pilot Schindler.

"This eagle didn't read the article."

Garden Notes

How to Keep Spuds

By M. V. CHESNUT

One very common problem in gardening is how to keep the vegetables firm and wholesome in storage through the winter. Folks on farms, with their proper root cellars and dugouts, don't have too much trouble, as the temperature and humidity is just about right in such underground storage rooms, although ventilation is sometimes difficult.

The town dweller, though, with a high-power furnace and a warm basement has a real problem on his hands. It is so discouraging, too, to have all those lovely vegetables, raised by the sweat of your brow, going bad in storage.

I had quite a few letters last winter complaining of rot in potatoes, blue mould on the onions and white whiskers on the carrots. Some of these were caused by incorrect storage conditions, but not all.

One common source of trouble is harvesting at the wrong stage of growth, and another is simply trying to store kinds which are not good keepers under any circumstances. It is just a waste of time, for instance, to try to store sweet Spanish onions through the winter, and cauliflowers — even the best kinds — are good for only a few weeks after cutting.

One rule always to keep in mind is this: A vegetable which hasn't finished growing won't keep well in storage. Potatoes, for instance, will almost always go bad in storage if harvested while the "haulm" or topgrowth is still green and growing, and the only safe way with malncrop potatoes is to leave them in the ground until the tops die down naturally. A good test for maturity is to rub the skin of a newly dug potato with the thumb — if the skin rubs off, the tuber is too immature for storage.

It is sometimes necessary to lift potatoes while the tops are still green. For instance, when potato blight strikes, the tops must be cut down and hauled away immediately before they can infect the tubers. In all such cases, the lifted crop should be set aside for immediate use, for while immature potatoes may have that wonderful "new" flavor, they are no good for storage.

After digging, leave the potatoes out in the sun and wind to dry off for about three hours — not longer, or the skins may turn green from exposure to light. This is bad business, for the green skins are mildly poisonous, and while the potatoes may be eaten, they must be peeled deeply enough to get rid of all the green before cooking.

For good storage, potatoes need cool, dark storage with high air humidity. Ideal temperature range is 38 to 40 degrees — a lower temperature will develop an unpleasant sweetish flavor, while too much warmth will start them sprouting before the winter is half over. Ideal humidity is 90 per cent of saturation. These, of course, are ideal conditions — something to shoot at — and I don't suppose one basement in a thousand will come anywhere near this target. A little too much warmth will simply shorten the effective storage life without affecting the flavor or wholesomeness of the potatoes. Complete darkness, though, is a must. Remember those green skins.

If you store in bins, the sides should be slatted to allow air to reach the lower layers. If you sack your potatoes, don't pile them all on top of one another; space out a bit, for if you don't have good air circulation around them, the spuds will take on a musty flavor or may even go mouldy.

JACK SMITH in Home of the Future

Poor Boggle Finds Peace

In an issue devoted to the future, American Home magazine forces a day when there will be a separate room in the house for every human need and pastime.

The happy, healthy family will have a head centre with an indoor-outdoor pool, electric massagers and exercisers, a sauna and even an old-fashioned set of barbells.

For the creative impulse, there will be "some sort of studio to be creative in — to paint, sculpt, write, whatever."

Teen-agers will have their own discotheque; mother, a potting shed and a boarding room for storing beamed relics, and an automatic kitchen with substitutions scattered about the house.

Dad will have a pub and a den. To do nothing at all in, except perhaps "to dream and contemplate," there will be "a withdrawing room, with music so soothing we hardly know it's on."

If dad is one of the 10 per cent who still work, he will have his own office at home, linked by computer and two-way TV to his boss's office, which he may actually have to go to "for a day or two each month." But most of his time will be spent at home, educating himself in the family brain centre.

Let us try to imagine now a man named Chester Boggle living in this dream house in 1986...

Boggle awoke in the sleep room with his usual sense of discontent. He sat up, reached for a dial and turned the house on for the day. He fell back and glowered at the ceiling.

His glowering awakened his wife. "What's the matter, dear?" she asked. She never understood Chester's moods anymore.

"I don't know," said Boggle. "I feel withdrawn. Out of it."

"Well, why don't you hop along to the withdrawing room?"

That's what it's for, dear."

Boggle put on his slippers and shuffled through the humming house to the withdrawing room. But he couldn't contemplate.

And that damn soft music. There was no way to turn it off. "Hell with it," he said. He went into the pub and drew a beer. Sometimes, he found, he could contemplate better in here than in the withdrawing room.

Especially when he started drinking early in the morning. He suddenly felt uneasy again. He drew another beer.

After drawing a third beer he lurched into his office. He dialed his employers on TV. No face appeared on the screen, but a voice answered.

Boggle felt excited. "Boggle here," he shouted. "Is the boss there?"

"The boss is not here. The boss has only been here two days this month, two days last month, two days

"Who is this? Mabel?"

"This is Eliza 707, your new computer. Mabel has not."

Boggle shut off the TV and went into the family brain centre. "Might as well learn something," he grumbled.

The brain centre always frightened him with its auto-types, memotelects, teach-oluxes, instant WAI. Durant machine and micro-encyclopedo-projector with its wrap-around screen.

His eye fell on a tiny shelf of tattered old paperback books, hunched in one corner. He had refused to part with them.

Boggle got up on a learning machine and pulled out a dog-eared little volume with a red cover. It was his favorite book.

He meeked through the house to the hoarding room and locked himself in with the other discards. He opened the book, his pulse quickening, and began to read The Call of the Wild.

For the next two hours Chester Boggle was a relatively happy man.

George 'In' with LBJ

NEW YORK (NANA)—I believe that everything is proceeding according to plan in the George Hamilton-Lynda Bird Johnson romance. I'm told they cooled it at the request of President Johnson who was not over-keen, at having Hamilton as a son-in-law. He didn't go to Viet Nam and he could have been useful Lynda Bird as a publicity magnet. But when the President goes to church with the fellow his daughter is mad about, then you know he is no longer opposing the romance.

Zero Mostel stole the show at The Bible premiere with his weird hairdo—his head looked like one of those net bags that people used to carry tennis balls in. When I gasped, "What have you done to your hair?" Zero smirked, "I had it shaped." He was pleased that I had enjoyed his A Funny Thing Happened On the Way to the Forum movie. Now he is concerned with getting his next one, The Great Catherine, off the ground. It isn't only a question of whether co-star Sophia Loren is expecting a baby, it's the red tape in Russia where she and co-producer Peter O'Toole was like to use the Hermitage in what used to be called St. Petersburg, built by Catherine between love affairs. "Now," he said dolefully, "we may have to make it in Poland."

Max von Sydow is as nervous as newcomer, rehearsing for the father role in David Susskind's television version of Diary of Anne Frank. "Since I saw you in London, he told me, "I've made a film in Sweden for Bergman." I would have liked his comments on The Bible—he played Jesus, as you know in The Greatest Story Ever Told. Personally I found the John Huston production very beautiful, but draggy. The party afterwards had a different kind of pace, with two top star actresses getting quite pickled.

Word from Boston concerns the freezing temperature between the entire cast of I Do, I Do. The "entire" cast is Mary Martin and Robert Preston. I understand they are working before and after the show so that the reviews will be more favorable when the musical hits New York.

Walter Matthau has made his decision. He will live on the coast starting next month when he makes his second movie this year—The Fortune Cookie was the first. Coming up, Guide to a Married Man. As if one needed a guide. Look for the most attractive men. They are always married.

Majority Neurotic

SYDNEY HARRIS

One of the basic definitions of a "neurotic" is that he is a person who is living in the past. He is tied, with unconscious chains, to his childhood. His present responses are overconditioned by the past, not by the reality around him.

By this definition, today's society is 90 per cent neurotic. Most people are not living in the world of 1966 at all, but in a much earlier world, and the "solutions" they propose for current problems are grotesquely inappropriate to modern conditions.

For instance, both the left-wing and the right-wing political syndromes are fantastically outmoded. The left-winger sees "capitalism" as it was 50 or 100 years ago, not as it is today; beginning with Marx, all the left-wing leaders grossly underestimated capitalism's ability to change and to transcend its earlier limitations.

Likewise, the right-winger is living in a nostalgic dream, by trying to equate our complex, inter-related economy with the frontier society of a century ago. The extreme right-winger, like the U.S. Birchism, is not a political point of view, for it has no relevancy to the modern world; it is a form of emotional regression.

But it is not merely the extremes of left and right who suffer from this neurotic clinging to the past. The vast bulk of us who are somewhere in the political middle also display our own severe symptoms of cultural neurosis.

For the hard, cold fact is that nearly every aspect of human life needs to be re-examined and revaluated in the light of today's needs, demands, expectations, and possibilities. This is true in education, in housing, in leisure, in sex, in religion, and perhaps most of all in international relations.

The chaos, confusion and conflict we see everywhere around us is not so much as a result of rapid change as a result of our psychological failure to grow up to this change. In our medicine, our science, our technology, we rapidly adjust ourselves to new techniques and solutions; but in our thinking, our feeling, our accommodation to social, political, cultural and economic problems, we remain enslaved to tribal memories.

It is hard and painful to grow up individually. It is even harder and more painful for a whole society to grow up, to throw off its early prejudices and preconceptions, to take a realistic look at what is happening in the world. Unless we can control and subdue the influence of the past, we shall have less and less control over the future.

Did You Know?

By HAL BOYLE

Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Your skull is stronger and tougher than you think... it can stand a weight of up to 3,600 pounds without being crushed.

No civilized man wore pants until after the fall of the Roman Empire... barbarians wrapped skins around their legs to keep out the cold... Roman civilians wore long robes. Roman soldiers short skirts to give them freedom of action... but by the year 600 most European men were clad in trousers.

aries. Catholic Digest magazine says "the ideal television show" would be one "about a cowboy in a tubility spaceship who throws peas in a monster surgeon's face."

Brunettes look hairier than blondes but aren't... if you had a dollar for every hair on your wife's head, you'd be worth $90,000 if she were a redhead, $120,000 if she were a brunette, and up to $140,000 if she were a natural blonde.

In normal conversation you speak about 125 words a minute... however, the mind can take in and understand from 400 to 700 words a minute — which, fortunately, is about as fast as anyone can gossip anyway.

Police Costs To Rise

B.C. will have to pay substantial increases for RCMP service in this province during the next 10 years, says Attorney-General Bonner.

The cabinet this week authorized Mr. Bonner to sign a new, 10-year contract with the federal justice department, retroactive to April 1966.

PAY HALF

Under terms of the new agreement, B.C. will have to pay half the cost for policing, whereas Ottawa used to pay 60 per cent in the old contract.

The attorney-general said the new contract will have a 25 per cent increase on the cost of providing men for duties in this province, along with an annual increase of one per cent.

Projected costs, based on increasing manpower requirements and increasing pay rates, show that B.C. will be paying $10,073,000 by the 1975-76 fiscal year, compared with $2,771,002 in the 1966-67 estimates for RCMP protection.

Before Grant Made

Full Hockey Figures Wanted

Victoria Minor Hockey Association's request for a $500 grant from the city to help defray expenses of a Centennial Jamboree held in Memorial Arena last April was sent back to the group for further information Thursday.

Members of city council finance committee said they wanted a complete statement of the association's financial position and not just a statement on the jamboree.

A request for a grant was made to council before the hockey tournament and at that time aldermen returned it with the suggestion that if a deficit was incurred they should make a further request.

"Surely this is a matter for the whole district," said Ald. Edgewood, suggesting that the request be forwarded to the Greater Victoria Inter-Municipal Committee.

THEY WERE TOLD

"It has been to the inter-municipal committee and returned to us," said City Treasurer James Bramley. "After all, these people were told to come back if they had a deficit."

Ald. Percy Frampton said the association was doing good work, but a full financial statement was required.

At the same meeting, aldermen voted to sweeten by $1,500 the account used by elected officials and staff for travelling expenses. They were told by the city manager that it was overdrawn.

CONFERENCE EXPENSES

An account rendered by Ald. Robert Baird for $282 for expenses incurred in attending an international health conference at Amsterdam was approved.

Ald. Baird, who was recently on a European tour, submitted the account for expenses from city. He was in Amsterdam for London to the conference. He six days.

Surplus Venison? See Food Stall

Successful hunters and fishermen in the Greater Victoria area having excess game and fish have been reminded that the next Surplus Food Stall day is Oct. 15.

Stall operator Mrs. Joan Price said Monday that hunters may have meat left over from last season and might wish to make room in their freezers for this year's venison.

"We would be very pleased to take any meat and fish from them. Of course we also need any type of surplus food we can get for our stall day."

"At our last opening we served 650 people," she said. Mrs. Price emphasized that welfare cards from either provincial, Victoria or Saanich departments must be presented at the stall before hampers will be given to anyone.

The stall will be taken under the wing of the 7th Arbutus Salvation Army Club and Scouts on Oct. 15, when the members will conduct a centennial project of picking up food for the stall's opening the following Saturday.

Mrs. Price said tickets for the Surplus Food Stall's benefit dance to be held Nov. 19 at Langford can be obtained either at Fairfield Movers on Cormorant or at the Elks Hall. Persons wishing to donate food can reach Mrs. Price at 478-4570.

Fishermen Fined For Small Catches

David Wigmore, 836 Darwin, and Mervin Glen Hart, 667 Goyette, were each fined $15 for being sports fishermen with undersize grise.

Also fined $15 each were Louis Claxton, Saanichton Reserve, and William Mudge, 7726 West Saanich. Both failed to produce a commercial licence.

The offence occurred in Juan de Fuca Strait.

Surrender Or Die For Cong

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. marines and army forces Thursday swept to victories on the two hottest battlefields of the war and successes were reported in every other sector of the country, including the mass surrender of 66 Viet Cong.

The marines ended a 15-day drive across a strategic mountain ridge just three miles south of the de-militarized zone by pushing a stubborn Communist hill-top fortress in heavy rain and gummy mud.

First Cavalry Division troops reported killing 94 Communists and capturing another 72 as an elite Communist division was being squeezed in an Allied trap along the coastline 30 miles north of Qui Nhon.

"They haven't got any choice except to surrender or get wiped out," a U.S. spokesman said.

Gordon:

Arms Sales

Wrong

TORONTO (UPI)—Former finance minister Walter Gordon said Thursday Canada should not sell arms to the United States if they are going to be used in the Viet Nam war.

Speaking to a meeting of the University of Toronto Liberal Club, Gordon said he did not think an arms cut-off to the United States would hurt the Canadian economy.

The former finance minister applauded Prime Minister Pearson for his comments about the war and "for all practical purposes saying the U.S. administration was wrong."

Gordon said he thought the war in Viet Nam was terrible.

Truscott Defence Dissects 'Dreadful Mistake'

By FRASER KELLY, Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Steven Truscott faces a stepped-up cross-examination today as Crown counsel Donald Scott makes a final attempt to crack his plea of innocence before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Scott said Thursday night he expects to question the 21-year-old convicted murderer for at least 45 minutes before allowing him to return to his jail cell.

For more than two hours Thursday Truscott stood behind a table, ramrod stiff, trying to convince the world he did not murder Lynne Harper in 1959.

His testimony climaxed when senior defence counsel G. Arthur Martin abruptly turned and asked: "Did you kill Lynne Harper?"

Quickly and firmly Truscott replied: "No sir, I did not."

Earlier in a breathtaking move, Mr. Martin had introduced — as defence evidence — an application for parole made by Truscott in his own handwriting on Aug. 4, 1964.

The hushed court was electric with tension as Mr. Martin read the last three sentences of the application:

"I have paid five years of my life, but this has taught me crime does not pay. So all I ask is please grant me one chance to make a success of my life and prove one dreadful mistake does not mean that I will ever make another one."

Mr. Martin asked the witness what he had meant by writing that he had learned that crime does not pay.

"Through observing all the people in the penitentiary it was obvious to me that crime wouldn't pay," Truscott replied.

He then said he had concluded before writing the submission it wouldn't do him any good to argue his innocence any longer and "it would be to my benefit to more or less go along with them on their terms in order to get out."

A short time later, after some legal wrangling, Mr. Martin introduced a second document written by Truscott's parole officer, classification assistant W. J. Haggerty, 13 days after the parole application.

It said: "Truscott still claims innocence of the present offense, but accepts his sentence with the feeling that nothing can be done."

A few minutes earlier Truscott had testified that he had been examined in prison by several psychiatrists.

"Was there a discussion of your guilt or innocence?" Mr. Martin asked.

When Truscott replied "Yes," Mr. Martin asked what approach was taken.

"The majority of them wanted me to admit I was guilty," Truscott said.

NDP Cracks Sacred Bastion

HILLCREST, Alta. (CP)—The New Democratic party captured a seat in the Alberta legislature Thursday night when Garth Truscott won a byelection in Pincher Creek.

Truscott defeated the incumbent Conservative M.P. by 134 votes.

The loss of the southwest Alberta seat is

Up-Country B.C. Indignant Rail Tieup Hits Economy

CBC President Plans to Quit

Informed Ottawa sources say CBC president J. Alphonse Oudet, 58, will retire from position after government passes legislation containing sweeping changes in Broadcasting Act. He was named president in 1958.—(CP)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sawmills are shutting down and interior businesses are becoming crippled as a tieup continues on British Columbia's only rail lifeline between the coast and the rich Peace River country.

A strike by some 400 non-operating employees of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern railway went into its 12th day today. The striking workers voted 64 per cent to reject a government wage offer and said the next move is up to Victoria.

Indignation is rising against the tieup of the line which runs some 800 miles from the southwest coast to the far northeast of the province. It is the main hauler of timber, oil and grain, the lifeblood of the province's economy.

HUNDREDS IDLE
In Quenest Thursday Mayor A. V. Fraser announced the calling of an "indignation" meeting to discuss the effect on the economy of the area. Hundreds of millworkers in the area have been laid off with the closure of mills.

At Williams Lake in the more southerly Cariboo country, Mayor Herbert Gardner described the situation as "pretty grim." He said the strike has effected several hundred people in the area and business in stores is down 25 per cent.

In Dawson Creek, Mayor Ron Witherspoon said his reaction to the government's rejection of the government's offer of parity with any final national rail employees settlement, was "unprintable."

Ship Burns After Collision

COURTFRONT, Ont. (CP) — The German freighter Ernst was burning and believed sinking after a collision with the Olympic Pearl in the St. Clair River Thursday night.

Police said no one was injured. Witnesses said 17 crew members of the Ernst jumped overboard.

They were rescued by the United States Coast Guard and taken ashore on the American side of the river.

Two officers who remained aboard the burning vessel were rescued by helicopter.

Peace File Swells

Five Formulas with One Objective

NEW YORK (AP)—The six-point plan for Viet Nam peace put forth Thursday at the Labor party meeting in Bristol by British Foreign Secretary George Brown joins other plans, still outstanding, offered by UN Secretary-General U Thant, U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Viet Nam, and the North Viet Nam regime.

Here are summaries of the plans:

BROWN'S

● Call a peace conference including representatives of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

● As soon as the parties are agreed upon, both sides cease reinforcing their combat armies and the United States halt all bombing.

● The opposing high commands stop all new attacks, preliminary to a ceasefire while the peace conference negotiates a political settlement.

● Neutralize Viet Nam, barring foreign troops and bases.

● Provide international supervision of these measures.

German Soldiers Died After V-E Day

Did Canada Force Executions?

MONTREAL (CP) — A

McGill University professor has sent a letter to Defence Minister Hellyer urging him to investigate allegations in a German magazine that Canadian army officers were involved in the 1945 trial and execution of two German army deserters by military court, nine days after German military courts were abolished by the Allies, and five days after V-E Day.

Prof. Edward McWhinney, professor of law and director of the Institute of Air and Space Law at McGill, said Thursday the allegations must be investigated since they reflect unfavorably on Canada's NATO brigades now in Germany.

He said two articles in the German magazine Der Spiegel say that a Canadian general and other army officers were involved in the trial of Bruno Dorfer and Reiner Beck May 13, 1945, by a German court near Amsterdam.

After reading the first article, contained in the Sept. 12 issue, Prof. McWhinney wrote to Mr. Hellyer Sept. 23. A few days later he received a formal acknowledgment of his letter with the promise that a further reply would be sent to him.

He said the first article alleged that a Canadian Army general gave the order for trial by German military court; the Canadian Army supplied weapons for the executions; that Canadian army wagons transported the two men to their deaths and that a Canadian officer went to the execution and congratulated the firing squad afterwards.

The second article which appeared in Der Spiegel Oct. 3 contained allegations by Wilhelm Koh, the German military court judge who presided at the trial, that Canadian army officers had used threats to compel him to try the men and sentence them to death, Prof. McWhinney said.

Prof. McWhinney said the judge who now is a provincial Supreme Court judge in Cologne, says in the article that he was a prisoner of war at the time of the trial and acted under duress.

The judge was quoted in the article as saying that a Canadian lieutenant-colonel wanted to arrest and try other deserters besides the two.

Prof. McWhinney said he is interested in the case as a professor of international law and as vice-president of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association.

At Ottawa, defence department officials declined comment on the grounds that the matter is before the German courts.

Campbell River: Pollution Under Attack

By JOY HUNTLEY

CAMPBELL RIVER — "This is the meeting to discuss the dangers of pollution to our natural resources," Roderick Haig-Brown said in a speech here Thursday night.

More than 250 people heard his speech on pollution.

"Due to the increase in industrial expansion," he said, "pollution dangers are increasing."

Already Here

"For control to be effective, it must come from three levels of government — federal, provincial and municipal interest at municipal level."

"Highest control is only 90 per cent effective," he said. Then he outlined the many forms of pollution: those that are directly toxic; disease carrying bacteria; excessive biochemical demand for oxygen; solids; and aesthetic pollution such as odors or scattered garbage.

"When quality of our air and water is impaired, inferior forms of life succeed over superior forms," he said. Mr. Brown asked municipal solicitor Tony Sarich to set up guidelines for Thursday's discussion.

Mr. Sarich said that Pollution Control Board announced it would grant three permits to Western Mines for dumping sewage and tailings into Butte Lake.

There's a hearing on Oct. 11, before B.C. Supreme Court, to find out whether this decision is valid.

"Until that date, we must not discuss these permits," Sarich said.

Other Panelists

Besides Mr. Brown, the coordinating chairman, the panelists included Howard Palsh of the B.C. Wildlife Federation, Dr. John Ross, Campbell River, Professor John Pringle, University of Victoria, and Dr. Alan Austin, also University of Victoria.

Any Alteration

Dr. Alan Austin, a University of Victoria biologist and another panelist, said "any alteration of our environment is pollution."

"Ignorance of ecology is a contributing factor and one of the costly causes of pollution," he said.

Lists Examples

Among those are Okanagan Lake, Columbia River and the Fraser, he said.

"We are attacking a 20th-century problem with 19th-century standards," he said. "If we cannot maintain environmental quality in a wilderness park we haven't a hope anywhere else."

"This is why Strathcona Park is so important," he added.

Mr. Pringle spoke for the younger set. He said what we need most is "dynamic political action and better education of the public."

Comox Airman Faces Suit In Four-Year-Old Case

Just about four years after an accident at Comox, Mrs. Pearl M. Walters of Courtenay is seeking damages in Victoria law courts.

Mrs. Walters was knocked down and injured by a car near the RCAF station as she was crossing the street on Nov. 23, 1962.

She suffered a fractured pelvis, fractured leg and shoulder injuries requiring hospital treatment.

Turrence Ryan, a Courtenay lawyer, asked Mr. Justice T. W.

Senior Citizens Receive Grant

CAMPBELL RIVER — Dan Campbell, minister of municipal affairs, has announced the provincial government has approved a $46,000 grant for a proposed senior citizens' housing project here.

Lorne Earle, chairman of the Lions Club senior citizens' housing committee, said Thursday this is the final step in completing arrangements with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for a 50-year mortgage on the project.

The grant represents one third of the capital cost. The Lions Club already has put up one tenth of the cost when it purchased the land from the municipality with funds provided by the municipality.

The balance will be handled by the CMA mortgage. The 14 one-bedroom duplex units are to house eight single people and six couples. Earle says the club is "tickled pink" with the grant and hopes to have the project completed by the spring.

Western Mines

Shipments Set

CAMPBELL RIVER — Initial copper, zinc and bulk concentrate shipments are expected to leave Western Mines' Myra Falls site at Butte Lake late this month.

According to Harold Wright, president of Western Mines, concentrator facilities will be operational in two or three weeks.

Western Mines has proven about 2,500,000 tons of ore at the Myra site near Myra Falls, valued at more than $100,000,000, the president said.

Nat Staples and pooch Sambo right on location

Just Like Christmas Cake

By MARIE CADORETTE

MAPLE BAY — A Maple Bay resident accidentally discovered oil on his property.

Nat Staples said he and a crew of workmen were digging a ditch on his waterfront property.

"We thought there was a leak so we lit a match," said Mr. Staples. "And away it went."

"It looked like a Christmas cake or plum pudding all lit up," he said. He had smelled oil or gas on his property but this was the first time something like this had happened.

He said the oil burned about 10 hours "off and on."

Sand was thrown on the flames which had spread for 10 feet along the shore.

A friend, George Whittaker, has taken samples which will be sent to UBC for examination. Rumors that a big oil company is interested in the Maple Bay area have been flying around.

Testing has been carried on for about a year.

It is believed mineral rights to 1,000 acres surrounding the area are not owned by E. & N. railway.

"We will be testing for our own safety," said Mr. Staples. "They will be doing it for commercial purposes."

Mr. Staples, who is in real estate, said, "I'm not in the building business."

He had been digging a foundation for a seawall before his discovery.

Export Figure Shrinks

CHEMAMOUS — September's figures for the ports of Chemamus and Crofton show a shrinkage of more than 10,000,000 board feet of lumber compared to July.

D. A. Haller, customs officer, related the slump to the contraction of the U.S. Atlantic coast lumber market.

The Americans took only 1,801,612 board feet in September, compared to 12,638,464 board feet in July.

Twenty-five foreign vessels were in port during September.

Homeowners Seek Rights

PORT ALBERNI — Industry should pay homeowners for damages caused by industrial fallout, says the Alberni Social Credit League.

Edward Hintz introduced the resolution asking the government to pass legislation to that effect at the annual meeting of the league here.

The next step will be to seek support for the resolution from the federal provincial convention, scheduled for Nov. 4 and 5.

Mr. Hintz pointed out that as it stands, homeowners have nowhere to turn when their property is damaged by industrial fallout, or when their health is impaired by it.

He feels the provincial government would be taking the lead on a national scale if it adopted such a measure.

Earlier this year the court of revision ordered a 10 per cent cut in property taxes for two Port Alberni homeowners because industrial fallout from the pulp-and-paper mill here had lowered the value of their homes.

But in June the B.C. Assessment Appeal Board reversed the ruling.

"If the resolution isn't supported at the provincial convention we'll have a revolution on our hands," Mr. Hintz said.

"It's the strongest resolution ever presented (to the convention)."

North Cowichan to Flush Fuller's Lake Supply

NORTH COWICHAN — The North Cowichan Council adopted a motion to flush out Fuller's Lake in an attempt to rectify the heavy growth of algae.

To promote the cleansing of lake contents, a 12-inch pipe will bring in fresh water from Miller Creek and the reopening of another pipe will carry the present water out.

This was one of three suggestions made by F. D. Schamburg from the B.C. Research Council.

Mr. Schamburg advised council it was not economical to filter the lake.

His other solution was the use of a toxic chemical.

The cost of the research and solution to the algae problem is $750. Coun. Denis Hogan reported a detailed investigation on present sewage systems.

The investigation was made by health inspector Douglas Roe who stated homes north and west of Duncan had unsatisfactory sewage disposals.

This seriously contributed to sewage pollution in the area. Leakage into road side ditches and poor tile fill on lots were only two of several causes of the pollution.

It has increased cases of hepatitis in the area, he said.

Council will present a sewage bylaw to the people Oct. 28. The cost of the system is $465,000 and it will be paid in 50 years.

Residents will be charged $200 for the first year and $100 annually thereafter.

31 SIGN

In other business, a petition signed by 21 residents of Dingwall, Alexander and Lewis streets was presented to council.

One of the residents has obstructed a waterway and others are concerned about flooding.

Council had previously passed a bylaw prohibiting the obstruction of waterways.

PASS MOTION

A motion was passed to refer the matter to the public works committee.

Council also granted Cowichan High School use of Pioneer Park for school activities providing there was no interference with organized activities and the grounds were cleaned up.

It is anticipated to complete the project in time to mark the amalgamation of the twin cities of Alberni and Port Alberni on Oct. 28, 1967.

Sawyer also reported it was hoped the public safety building to serve the amalgamated city will be finished early next year, and plans for the new fire hall are nearing completion.

Industry Hits Snags

By RUTH McKELLAR

COURTENAY — Some say it's the start of a recession, others come right out and say depression but whatever the name employment in the Comox Valley area appears to be somewhat below average. Layoffs are reported as well as one permanent closure.

Comox Mining Co., owned by three local men and operating at Teale River, has closed for good.

Stan Lawrence, who operated the coal mine along with George Duffield and Paul Grundy, said the mine closed its operations Sept. 23.

The move affects one shift of miners totalling about 50 men although at one time the mine operated three shifts involving 120 men.

Closure was brought about because of a lack of contracts. Many companies and other operations which previously burned coal have gradually turned to oil or gas and the once-lucrative Japanese markets also have disappeared.

'Definitely Not'

Asked if there was any possibility of government assistance in the form of subsidization, Mr. Lawrence replied, "Definitely not."

Meanwhile log surpluses caused by slackening lumber markets are creating a problem in the forest industry.

Van West Logging, with offices on the Royton-Cumberland Road, reports curtailing its operation to one side in place of three effective this Friday. About 35 men will be affected.

Tom Carter, Manager, stated, "About 75 per cent of our production is for pulp and there is currently too much pulp."

Mar. Salter, IWA president, Local 1-363, Courtenay, reported he had not heard of any major layoffs but pointed out the IWA was well aware of the possibility of several taking place.

Cutback Indicated

There were indications of a cutback in the purchase of logs for processing of pulp wood at Duncan Bay north of Campbell River.

Mr. Salter said in his opinion press reports of an increase in the price of paper along with decreases in the price of logs was indicative of a log surplus.

Howard Hall, division manager at Crown Zellerbach's Elk Falls operation, said there would be a cutback in the planer section at the mill at the end of the week, with one shift replacing the normal two.

Crown Zellerbach also reported curtailment of logging operations at its Bella Coola and Beaver Cove divisions effective at mid-month. A total of 160 men will be affected.

Early in 1967?

At the Courtenay logging division of Crown Zellerbach, M. Poje stated he was not aware of any proposed cutback here but agreed there was a surplus of logs in many operations.

Reports in Courtenay indicate at least one local business and some car dealers have reportedly felt the first pinch resulting from the cutbacks.

Trial Within Trial

NANAIMO — The non-capital murder trial of Gordon Coss was continued Thursday without jurors, while a trial within-a-trial was held, to consider admissibility of evidence.

Since Tuesday, witnesses have testified to a series of events during a weekend drinking party that ended with two deaths.

Luigi Delipppo testified that when he tried to cool hot tempers, the accused said, "Listen to Luigi."

The next time he noticed Gordon Coss was when Coss had a rifle pointed toward Luigi and said, "The next guy that moves is going to get it."

Irvine McLeod, the deceased, replied, "You're not going to shoot anybody with that thing."

McLeod moved, and got it.

"I didn't come back as fast as I went," said Delipppo, when asked if he returned to the scene.

After a struggle for possession of the rifle, between Gordon and Walter Coss, Constable William Pitcher said that he was alarmed at gunpoint by Walter, who then shot himself with the pistol, having said, "It's all my fault, it's all my fault."

Gordon Coss flung himself onto his brother's body.

Pitcher struggled with the accused for possession of the revolver.

"I wasn't going to shoot you," cried the accused, after Pitcher disarmed him.

When defence counsel Harry Rankin questioned Pitcher about that sentence, Pitcher repeated it, underscoring "You" with his voice.

Both counsels have questioned witnesses about identification, of brothers Gordon and Walter Coss, who were described as having strong family characteristics.

Courtenay:

Forest Battle Burns

COURTENAY — Despite setbacks in some logging operations and a forecast by a union official of possible shutdowns, here, the IWA Local 1-363 and Crown Zellerbach continue their battle over several matters.

Travel time pay, one of the items in a recent dispute between Crown Zellerbach, Courtenay division, and IWA Local 2-363, now is in the hands of the IWA regional negotiating committee. It will deal directly with Forest Industrial Relations.

The dispute over travel time pay was one of the items involved when crews walked off their jobs a few weeks ago.

At the meeting following a return to work the issue was not settled to the satisfaction of the crew and it was brought up at a recent IWA conference in Vancouver.

In the matter of safety procedures with regard to fallers and buckers, the convention will press the compensation board to implement regulations which would prohibit such employees from working alone.

Specific reference to fallers and buckers procedures and the problems in that department was made when a resolution pointed out the need for safest possible conditions and called for standardization of safety procedures.

This particular problem involves minimum and maximum distance between fallers and other workers, procedure to follow in case of difficulty and means of securing and rendering assistance.

Max Sakler, president of Local 1-363 IWA, said other items which were discussed with the company, and which were partially involved in the original walkout, had not brought any further comment from the company.

In Victoria

Addicts' Hopes Dimmer

Prospects of establishing a drug addict rehabilitation centre in a residential area of Victoria seem remote.

So far Vern Minow, a former addict and director of a rehabilitation centre in Vancouver, has been unable to form a board of directors for the proposed institution at 1715 Rockland.

Most of the prominent citizens named by Mr. Minow as interested in sitting on the board of the Victoria Halfway House Society issued denials of their association with the group in statements Wednesday.

Police Chief J. F. Gregory, named by Mr. Minow as another possible director of the Victoria Halfway House, issued this statement Thursday:

"I have never met Minow nor have I ever spoken to him in person or on the telephone. He has never offered me a directorship in any Halfway House, and because there is absolutely no need for such an institution in Greater Victoria I would not accept such a directorship."

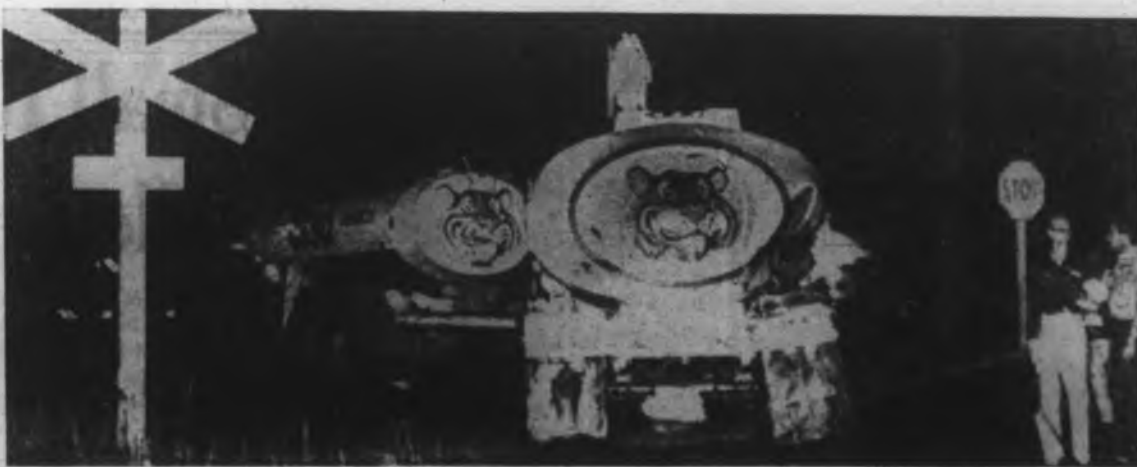

Dr. Charles Ennals, Oak Bay physician, said Wednesday "I have never been asked to serve on the board of directors and certainly don't appreciate my name being in print as I have never even given the matter any consideration."

Feelings continue to run high on Rockland. Lawyer George Jones, who spoke out in favor of using the home at 1715 as a drug addict treatment centre, said Thursday he has been getting phone calls about his attitude.

One woman told Mr. Jones at the conclusion of a meeting in the home Tuesday, "I have noticed your dog wandering about the streets and I intend to put the SPCA onto you."

Meanwhile, no official move has been made by Vern Minow to have the home rezoned for multiple use.

His earlier threat to go ahead even if he is turned down by the city was discounted Wednesday by city planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh.

Life Doesn't End for Blind Expert Assures Audience

TOFINO — Life doesn't have to come to an end for the blind, William Tymchuk recently told audiences at Tofino and Ucluelet.

There are many services available to help the blind lead full and useful lives. Mr. Tymchuk, of the Victoria branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, knows whereof he speaks.

He lost his sight in an industrial accident. Mr. Tymchuk recalled how he, like so many others, thought the end to everything had come. But he has adjusted to his handicap and is now able to help others in the same predicament.

Among the many services offered blind students by the CNIB are Braille and tape transcribing, tape recorder loan and reader service.

Blind persons wanting to travel are given intensive instruction in the use of the long cane.

Many blind people, he said, are on the staffs in occupational shops, industry news-stands and in many other lines of employment. The blind receive some concessions so far as transportation is concerned, free theatre passes, discounts on radios and appliances and handicraft materials. Games and clocks are sold at cost.

Low-cost housing, white canes, glasses, artificial eyes and other services to protect and relieve eye conditions, and emergency supplementary help, are also available for the blind, Tymchuk said.

Paper Playing Powerful Part

PORT ALBERNI — Paper was the top cargo out of here during September, with 24,786 moving to the sea. Lumber accounted for 23,433 tons of the month's 56,640-ton total.

MacMillan Bloedel's two recently-constructed large newsprint barges took a large part of the paper during the period.

Nootka Carrier was the first vessel to leave during September, sailing with 6,993 tons of newsprint for Long Beach. Nanosue Carrier sailed next with 7,046 tons, for the same destination.

Japan continued as one of the port's leading customers. The big Norwegian freighter Bernhard loaded 3,253 tons of lumber for Tokyo, and the Havkatt 2,815 tons.

Ritsuyo Maru loaded 1,312 tons of pulp for Japan, then departed for Nanaimo for additional cargo.

Drive Starts

TOFINO — Mrs. William Silta and Mrs. Walter Guppy have started the annual collection of funds for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. They have conducted the canvass in the Tofino-Long Beach area for several years.

Look what André's have been biding in the cellar

A delicate, ruby Beaujolais — a charming Vin Rosé — a light, dry Moselle from the preferred late-bearing vine — and an extra-dry Cocktail Sherry, in the true Fino tradition. Not 'new' wines (they've been aged in André's oak casks far too long to be called 'new'), but wines that are now making their debut under the aristocratic label: André's Regency Wines.

These superb wines have been hidden in the cool shadows of André's cellars, waiting for the moment their bouquets would be most tantalizing, their flavors most exquisite.

That moment is here. Discover André's Regency Wines tonight.

Fires' Glow Soft

DUNCAN — "I think the fire season was pretty good this year," said district ranger S. J. Sykes.

There were 35 fires this season but they were confined to very small areas.

The largest fire covered less than an acre and was put out very quickly. Mr. Sykes said only one fire was caused by logging operations, the others were caused by the public.

Children playing with matches and careless smokers started many of the fires, he said.

Colored glass exposed to the sun was not as dangerous as clear glass filled with a liquid. "I have seen a clear vinegar bottle filled with a clear liquid catch a boat on fire," said Mr. Sykes.

The lookout reported only one smoke which was a fire. About 500 permits were issued during May, June, July August and September.

Grits Win Bank Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—The minority Liberal government won its first vote test of the fall sitting Thursday night—81 to 78 on the question of approval in principle for its revised Bank Act.

It came after Finance Minister Sharp told the Commons that chartered banks will have to disclose effective interest rates and service charges on consumer loans. He said he would propose an amendment to this effect during clause-by-clause study of the revised act. The vote came at the second reading stage. The bill now will be sent to the Commons finance committee, then return for clause-by-clause study by the House.

OPPOSING LINE

The 82 Liberals got support from two independents—J. A. Mongrain (Trois-Rivières) and Maurice Allard (Sherbrooke). Voting against them were 52 Conservatives, 15 New Democrats, seven Creditistes, three Social Credit members and Independent Gilles Grogins (Lapointe).

Standings in the 265-seat House: Liberals 131, Conservatives 96, New Democrats 21, Creditistes 8, Social Credit 5, Independent 3 and vacant 1.

Just before the vote a companion bill, affecting two chartered banks in Quebec, won approval in principle without a

Surrender Or Die For Cong

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. marines and army forces Thursday won their first victory on the two hottest battlefields of the war and successes were reported in every other sector of the country, including the mass surrender of 66 Viet Cong.

The marines ended a 15-day drive across a strategic mountain ridge line just three miles south of the de-militarized zone by crushing a stubborn Communist hill-top fortress in heavy rain and gummy mud.

First Cavalry Division troops reported killing 94 Communists and capturing another 72 as an elite Communist division was being squeezed in an Allied trap along the coastline 30 miles north of Qui Nhon.

"They haven't got any choice except to surrender or get wiped out," a U.S. spokesman said.

Gordon:

Arms Sales

Wrong

TORONTO (UPI)—Former finance minister Walter Gordon said Thursday Canada should not sell arms to the United States if they are going to be used in the Viet Nam war.

Speaking at a meeting of the University of Toronto Liberal Club, Gordon said he did not think an arms cut-off to the United States would hurt the Canadian economy.

The former finance minister applauded Prime Minister Pearson for his comments about the war and "for all practical purposes saying the U. S. administration was wrong."

Gordon said he thought the war in Viet Nam was terrible.

Truscott Defence Dissects 'Dreadful Mistake'

DID YOU KILL HER? NO

By FRASER KELLY, Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Steven Truscott faces a stepped-up cross-examination today as Crown counsel Donald Scott makes a final attempt to crack his plea of innocence before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Scott said Thursday night he expects to question the 21-year-old convicted murderer for at least 45 minutes before allowing him to return to his jail cell.

For more than two hours Thursday Truscott stood behind a table, ramrod stiff, trying to convince the world he did not murder Lynne Harper in 1959.

His testimony climaxed when senior defence counsel G. Arthur Martin abruptly turned and asked: "Did you kill Lynne Harper?" Quickly and firmly Truscott replied: "No sir, I did not."

Earlier in a breathtaking move, Mr. Martin had introduced — as defence evidence — an application for parole made by Truscott in his own handwriting on Aug. 4, 1964.

The hushed court was electric with tension as Mr. Martin read the last three sentences of the application:

"I have paid five years of my life, but this has taught me crime does not pay. So all I ask is please grant me one chance to make a success of my life and prove one dreadful mistake does not mean that I will ever make another one."

Mr. Martin asked the witness if he had meant by writing that he had learned that crime does not pay. "Through observing all the people in the penitentiary it was obvious to me that crime wouldn't pay," Truscott replied.

He then said he had concluded before writing the submission it wouldn't do him any good to argue his innocence any longer and "it would be to my benefit to more or less go along with them on their terms in order to get out."

A short time later, after some legal wrangling, Mr. Martin introduced a second document written by Truscott's parole officer, classification assistant W. J. Haggerty, 13 days after the parole application.

It said: "Truscott still claims innocence of the present offence, but accepts his sentence with the feeling that nothing can be done."

A few minutes earlier Truscott had testified that he had been examined in prison by several psychiatrists.

"Was there a discussion of your guilt or innocence?" Mr. Martin asked.

When Truscott replied "Yes," Mr. Martin asked what approach was taken.

"The majority of them wanted me to admit I was guilty," Truscott said.

NDP Cracks Sacred Bastion

HILLCREST, Alta. (CP)—The New Democratic party captured a seat in the Alberta legislature Thursday night when Garth Truscott won a byelection in Pincher Creek-Crowsnest constituency by 136 votes.

The loss of the southwest Alberta seat is the second suffered by Premier Manning's government in successive byelections but left Social Credit with a comfortable majority in the 68-member House. There are 38 Socialists, three Liberals and Coalition member in addition to Mr. Truscott.

Up-Country B.C. Indignant Rail Tieup Hits Economy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sawmills are shutting down and interior businesses are becoming crippled as a tieup continues on British Columbia's only rail lifeline between the coast and the rich Peace River country.

A strike by some 400 non-operating employees of the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern railway went into its 12th day today. The striking workers voted 64 per cent to reject a government wage offer and said the next move is up to Victoria.

Indignation is rising against the tieup of the line which runs some 500 miles from the southwest coast to the far northeast of the province. It is the main hauler of timber, oil and grain, the lifeblood of the province's economy.

HUNDREDS IDLE In Quesnel Thursday Mayor A. V. Fraser announced the calling of an "indignation" meeting to discuss the effect on the economy of the area. Hundreds of millworkers in the area have been laid off with the closure of mills.

At Williams Lake in the more southerly Cariboo country, Mayor Herbert Gardner described the situation as "pretty grim." He said the strike has effected several hundred people in the area and business in stores is down 25 per cent.

In Dawson Creek, Mayor Ron Witherspoon said his reaction to the employees' rejection of the government's offer of parity with any final national rail employees settlement, was "unpleasant."

Ship Burns After Collision

COURTBOURNE, Ont. (CP) — The German freighter Ernst was burning and believed sinking after a collision with the Olympic Pearl in the St. Clair River Thursday night.

Police said no one was injured. Witnesses said 17 crew members of the Ernst jumped overboard.

They were rescued by the United States Coast Guard and taken ashore on the American side of the river.

Two officers who remained aboard the burning vessel were rescued by helicopter.

Peace File Swells

Five Formulas with One Objective

NEW YORK (AP)—The six-point plan for Viet Nam peace put forth Thursday at the Labor party meeting in Bristol by British Foreign Secretary George Brown joins other plans, still outstanding, offered by UN Secretary-General U Thant, U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Viet Nam, and the North Viet Nam regime.

Here are summaries of the plans:

BROWN'S

● Call a peace conference including representatives of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

● As soon as the parity is agreed upon, both sides cease reinforcing their combat armies and the United States halt all bombing.

● The opposing high commands stop all new attacks, preliminary to a ceasefire while the peace conference negotiates a political settlement.

● Neutralize Viet Nam, barring foreign troops and bases.

● Provide international supervision of these measures.

Were Executions Forced by Canada?

MONTREAL (CP) — A McGill University professor has sent a letter to Defence Minister Hellyer urging him to investigate allegations in a German magazine that Canadian army officers were involved in the 1945 trial and execution of two German army deserters by military court, nine days after German military courts were abolished by the Allies, and five days after V-E Day.

Prof. Edward McWhinney, professor of law and director of the Institute of Air and Space Law at McGill, said Thursday the allegations must be investigated since they reflect unfavorably on Canada's NATO brigades now in Germany.

He said two articles in the German magazine Der Spiegel said that a Canadian general and other army officers were involved in the trial of Bruno Dorfer and Rainer Beck May 13, 1945, by a German court near Amsterdam.

After reading the first article, contained in the Sept. 12 issue, Prof. McWhinney wrote to Mr. Hellyer Sept. 23. A few days later he received a formal acknowledgment of his letter with the promise that a further reply would be sent to him.

He said the first article alleged that a Canadian Army general gave the order for trial by German military court; the Canadian Army supplied weapons for the executions; that Canadian army wagons transported the two men to their deaths and that a Canadian officer went to the execution and congratulated the firing squad afterwards.

The second article which appeared in Der Spiegel Oct. 3 contained allegations by Wilhelm Koh, the German military court judge who presided at the trial, that Canadian army officers had used threats to compel him to try the men and sentence them to death, Prof. McWhinney said.

Prof. McWhinney said the judge who now is a provincial Supreme Court judge in Cologne, says in the article that he was a prisoner of war at the time of the trial and acted under duress.

The judge was quoted in the article as saying that a Canadian lieutenant-colonel wanted to arrest and try other deserters besides the two.

Prof. McWhinney said he is interested in the case as a professor of international law and as vice-president of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association.

At Ottawa, defence department officials declined comment on the grounds that the matter is before the German courts.
